

Body of Second Flier Found on Icy Mountain

One of Five Crewmen Still Missing in Jet Bomber Crash

BY JOHN A. WOODFIELD
CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—The body of a second flier from an Air Force jet bomber which crashed near here Monday was found on an icecapped mountain today. Only one of the five crewmen is still unaccounted for.

Two crew members had been found alive earlier and another had perished on the blizzard-swept slope near the scene of the wreckage.

The second body recovered was identified as Maj. Robert L. Payne, 41, of Tulsa, Okla., navigator of the B52 carrying two nuclear weapons. Both weapons, described as harmless in their present state because they were not primed, were found in the wreckage.

6 Miles From Crash
Payne's body was located about six miles from the plane crash, 20 miles west of Cumberland.

Found dead earlier in the wreckage was Maj. Robert L. Townley, 42, of Gadsden, Ala., the bombardier.

Still missing and the object of an intense air and ground search was T. Sgt. Melvin Wooten, 27, of Tishomingo, N.M., the tail gunner.

The other crewmen, Maj. Thomas W. McCormick of Yawkey, W. Va., and Capt. Parker C. Peedin, 29, of Smithfield, N.C., survived parachute jumps in near-blizzard weather. McCormick made it to a nearby farmhouse and Peedin was

Ex-Minister to be Hanged

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP)—A wave of anti-Arab terrorism may be building up in Zanzibar, where African nationalists overthrew the Arab government last weekend.

The military leader of the revolt, John Okello, announced via Zanzibar Radio that the Minister of Finance and development in the old government, Juma Aley Juma - Aburway, would be hanged publicly today.

Okello said two other prominent Arabs, former Asst. Minister Rashid Hamadi Olham and Orani Hamadi of Pemba Island, a dependency of Zanzibar, would also be hanged. He set no date.

Okello said previously that another Arab, Elek Salim, would be doused with gasoline and burned and that Hilal Kihanga, a wealthy Arab merchant, had been ordered to kill his sons and daughters and then kill himself.

Zanzibar reports indicated Okello is humiliating once-proud Arabs who fought the rebels in Sunday's revolt that overthrew Sultan Seyyid Jamshid bin Abdullah's regime.

East Faces Severe Cold While Digging Out of Heavy Snow

Over 140 Deaths Attributed To Worst Storm of Winter

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bitter cold added woe to misery today as the eastern half of the nation continued to dig out of its worst snowstorm of the winter.

Thousands of motorists and others were stranded and more than 140 deaths were blamed on the blizzard-like onslaught.

New York City sanitation men, 8,000 strong, were bolstered by 3,000 extras hired at $2 an hour to shovel snow from streets, the city's biggest accumulation in three years.

Manhattan's Great White Way was just that.

In the South Florida citrus growers readied heaters for the lowest temperatures — 23 in Jacksonville and 42 in Miami Beach — since the crop-killing freeze 13 months ago.

Temperatures also plummeted elsewhere—to 11 below zero early today in Albany, N.Y. Biting winds made it seem even colder.

In New York City, police and a doctor teamed up Monday to bring an emergency supply of blood to one-day-old Lisa Cavalluzzo in a Queens hospital. Lisa, needing a complete replacement of blood, got it in time although a police car broke down in the snow trying to deliver it.

The doctor's car also gave up, miles from the hospital. A police car, which took him the rest of the way, bogged down in snow for 15 minutes before delivering him to make the transfusion.

Lisa was in satisfactory condition today.

Another New York City child became a victim of the snow. He was 5-year-old Scott Rubenstein. Police think he tunneled into a snow-bank which collapsed and trapped him.

Elsewhere in the East and Midwest:

Scores died from overexertion or exposure as they shoveled snow, tried to dig out stuck autos or trudged through deep expanses of white.

On a Raleigh, N.C., street, Michael N. Summy, 6, was killed when his sled ran under a truck.

Among thousands marooned by the storm were hundreds of motorists in Indiana, Illinois and on New York City's Belt Parkway. Buses rescued the latter group. The others began to move as conditions eased.

Youngstown, Ohio, got 16 inches of snow, heaviest in six years; Albany, N.Y., 15 inches, heaviest 24-hour fall for any January on record; Washington, D.C., 9 inches, heaviest in more than five years.

Thinks Son Innocent

Mrs. Oswald contends her son is innocent or acted with others if guilty. Evidence released by government agencies has indicated Oswald acted alone.

Oswald, 24, was charged with the Nov. 22 assassination of Kennedy, the fatal shooting of a Dallas policeman, J.D. Tippit and the attempted murder of Texas Gov. John B. Connally, who was riding in a car with Kennedy.

Oswald was shot in the Dallas City Hall as officers prepared to transfer him to the county jail. Jack Ruby, Dallas night club operator, is charged with the slaying which occurred not before a national television audience.

Johnson Helps End Deadlock In Controversy

Delivers Final Instructions to U. S. Negotiator

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States administration was re-ported pleased today with the agreement for ending the crisis in U.S.-Panamanian relations.

President Johnson himself worked on final instructions to the U.S. negotiator in Panama, diplomat Edwin M. Martin, during the midnight hours after a White House dinner for President Antonio Segni of Italy.

Administration officials said the essence of the agreement so far as the United States is concerned is that the United States will discuss with Panama any issue Panama wants to raise. That clearly includes demands for revision of the treaty by which the United States exercises absolute control of the Panama Canal Zone.

Not Bound to Revision
The United States is not committed, however, to revise the treaty. What it may eventually do in this respect will depend on how the discussions go.

Johnson was notified late Tuesday that as a result of negotiations in Panama the prospect of an agreement was growing.

The break in the crisis came with unexpected speed. Late Tuesday, some of the best-informed officials here expected that the government of Panamanian President Roberto Chiari would force a total rupture in diplomatic relations and a closing of the U.S. Embassy.

Panama had taken the position that relations could be resumed only when the United States had agreed to revision of the treaty. Chiari was making demands that the United States virtually abandon the canal but diplomats here understood his real position was that Panama should get a substantial increase in the annual payment of $1,930,000 and a voice in the operation of the canal.

Ties Will be Resumed at Early Date

BY THEODORE A. EDIGER

PANAMA (AP)—The United States and Panama agreed today to re-establish diplomatic relations "as quickly as possible" and to open discussions 30 days after resumption of relations on all issues between the two countries.

The agreement did not specifically mention the treaty giving the United States control of the Panama Canal Zone, which Panama wants revised. But its language made clear this would be among the issues to be discussed.

Panamanian President Roberto Chiari's press officer, Fabian Velarde, said his government would wait awhile, perhaps a week, "to let things cool off" before resuming relations with the United States.

Costa Rica Intermediary
He said Panama then would ask a third government to advise Washington of the desire to restore relations, which Chiari broke off at the height of the crisis last weekend. The intermediary is expected to be Costa Rica, which was named to handle Panama's affairs in Washington during the break.

The agreement was reached by Edwin M. Martin, President Johnson's special envoy, and Panamanian Foreign Minister Galileo Solis, meeting with the peace committee of the Organization of American States.

Martin, Solis and the OAS group had been negotiating since Sunday night.

A communique issued by the OAS committee said Panama and the United States "agreed to begin formal discussions which will be initiated 30 days after diplomatic relations are re-established by means of representatives who will have sufficient powers to discuss without limitations all existing matters of any nature which may affect the relations between the United States and Panama."

Thecania I treaty is the chief "existing matter."

Romney Backers Plan Slate in State Primary

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A Wisconsin group supporting Gov. Conson Romney of Michigan for the Republican presidential nomination will enter a slate of candidates in the April 7 primary although Romney says he won't permit his name to be used on the ballot.

Carl A. Kielisch of Grafton, chairman of the Wisconsin Romney Committee, said Tuesday the plans would not be affected by merger of two Romney organizations in Michigan.

Kielisch added that the National Romney for President movement had decided to consolidate with the Romney Volunteers, a group which backed Romney in his bid for the governorship. Kielisch said his group has ties with both organizations, but the Wisconsin unit is autonomous and would not be affected by decisions of the combined Michigan group.

The Wisconsin unit plans to file a slate of delegate candidates on March 6, despite the fact that Romney has refused to allow use of his name on the ballot. The group will use the name "Common Sense Approach to Government."

11 Known Dead as Partly Finished Building Falls

PARIS (AP)—A partly completed apartment building collapsed today burying workmen inside. The fire chief on the scene said 11 bodies were found in the rubble and that three other workmen died later in a hospital.

The fire chief said an estimated 100,000 tons of twisted steel and crumbled reinforced concrete fell on the men.

The fire chief said a quick check showed 19 workmen were missing and possibly under the rubble of steel and concrete.

Five fire companies were called to the scene on Boulevard Lefebvre in the 15th Arrondissement (ward) near the Park of Expositions at Porte de Versailles.

The building, being built by the government as a moderate-rent unit, was to have been 12 stories high and contain 899 apartments.

Tries to Prove Lee Oswald Not Assassin

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—

A New York lawyer has agreed to represent Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy, and will try to prove him innocent, his mother said Tuesday.

The mother, Mrs. Marguerite Oswald, told reporters that attorney Mark Lane would appear for her dead son before the special presidential commission investigating the assassination.

Lane several weeks ago submitted a lengthy brief to the commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren stating that Oswald should be defended.

said a copy of the OAS communiqué received from the U. S. Embassy in Panama said nothing about "formal" discussions between the two sides but that they had "agreed to begin discussions on all existing matters of any nature" affecting U.S.-Panama relations.

Panama Eases Stand

At the outset of the OAS sponsored talks Sunday, Panama had insisted that resumption of diplomatic relations should be preceded by a strong U.S. declaration of intent to review the 1903 treaty that gives the United States perpetual sovereignty over the Canal Zone. The United States reportedly balked at making such a pledge under pressure.

Panama is not expected to call on the United States to get out of the Canal Zone, which cuts the strategic Latin-American country in half. Solis has made clear that Panama is not interested in running the canal. He stressed, however, that his government will seek to reduce the boundaries of the zone, which is 16 miles wide and extends 36 miles from the Caribbean to the Pacific.

Panamanian Goals

Panama also is expected to seek an increase in the $1.9 million the United States pays annually for the use of the canal and greater opportunities for advancement for Panamanians in the Canal Zone Company.

Quiet prevailed along the Canal Zone borders where 21 Panamanians and 3 U.S. soldiers were killed last weekend. The violence stemmed from Panamanian resentment—apparently egged on by pro-Castro Communists—to the defiance by American high school students in the Canal Zone of regulations requiring the joint display of U.S. and Panamanian flags in the zone.

BALBOA, Canal Zone (AP)—U.S. and Panamanian flags were raised side by side at Balboa High School today. There was applause from both American and Panamanian witnesses.

About 300 adults, including a handful of Panamanians, lined the front lawn of the school to watch the ceremony.

The student body gathered on the sidewalks and at school windows as a high school ROTC color guard raised the flags.

error bid in the primary to the party endorsed candidate, Philip Kuehn, who in turn lost in the general election to Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds, Proxmire added:

Classic Campaign

"Wilbur Renk proved in his classic campaign against great odds for the Republican nomination for governor in 1962 that he is a remarkably resourceful and energetic campaigner."

"He has a fine record of accomplishment in farming and business. As president of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents, he earned a reputation as one who has worked hard and constructively for higher education in our state."

There is little question that Proxmire will seek another term, and little doubt he will be unopposed in the primary. Such will not be the case for Renk.

GOP Nominee

The first to announce for the Republican nomination was Willis E. Donley, of Menomonie, who got into campaign Monday night. He said he would not seek party endorsement. Renk did not bid for endorsement in 1962, but will this time. Endorsement does not bar others from entering a campaign, but the selected candidate receives the party's financial and organizational backing.

Renk said there was one thing he did not want, and would not accept—the support of the John Birch Society. A society spokesman, Dr. Theodore Tavlors, a sectional leader from Madison, issued a statement Tuesday night saying the organization "plays no part in any political campaign and is not a part of politics."

Taylor said the society does not endorse nor support candidates but is an educational organization.

It was also here that a group of Panamanian students marched with their flag last Thursday and, when rebuffed in an attempt to hoist it in front of the school, left the Canal Zone and touched off the demonstrations which left casualties on both sides of the border.

Today was the first day of classes since then. When the students returned they found the single flagpole had been removed and two new ones erected.

Plans Move Ahead On Street Extension

Expect Washington-Franklin Job To Begin Sometime Next Summer

City officials are moving ahead with plans for the Washington-Franklin Street extension, with construction to start sometime this summer if all goes well.

First major hurdle, explained at Tuesday's meeting of the board of public works, will be acquisition of the necessary land.

Public Works Director Robert

W. Bues showed a layout of the proposed street extension. After Washington and Franklin streets are linked in an area north of the water tower, Franklin Street will continue west and connect with N. Richmond Street.

Carl L. Roehl, 1615 N. Nicholas St., appeared before the board and registered objection to the proposed plan "before it is finalized."

GOP Chairman To Speak at Lincoln Dinner

William Miller to Talk to County Group in Appleton

Republican National Chairman William E. Miller will be the guest speaker at the Outagamie County Republican Party's annual Lincoln Day dinner, Feb. 6 in the Conway Hotel.

County Republican Chairman

William E. Miller

John Conway, said: "We are extremely fortunate to get a man of Rep. Miller's national prominence and stature for our Lincoln Day dinner. His appearance will focus national attention on the Fox River Valley, and will give all of us an opportunity to hear a national viewpoint expressed by a truly outstanding speaker."

Rep. Miller, congressman from New York for the past 14 years, serves on the House Judiciary committee. He was in chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee in 1960-61, and has been chairman of the Republican National Committee since 1961.

Notre Dame Degree

Born in Lockport, N.Y. in 1914, Rep. Miller earned his B.A. degree from Notre Dame in 1935, and his law degree from Union University, Albany, N.Y., in 1938. He practiced law in Lockport from 1938-42, and was U.S. Commissioner in the Western District of New York.

Rep. Miller served in the Judge Advocate General's Corps during World War II, and was an assistant prosecutor during the Nurnberg trials.

After the war, he was appointed assistant district attorney, and later, elected district attorney in Niagara County, N.Y. Rep. Miller is married and is the father of three children.

Richard Mahony Jr., 1106 E. Nawada, is chairman of the Lincoln Day dinner.

Romney Backers Here Concerned About State Slate

The Outagamie County Romney for President Club expressed its concern over the assertion that a slate pledged to Governor Romney will be entered in the Wisconsin primary in 1964.

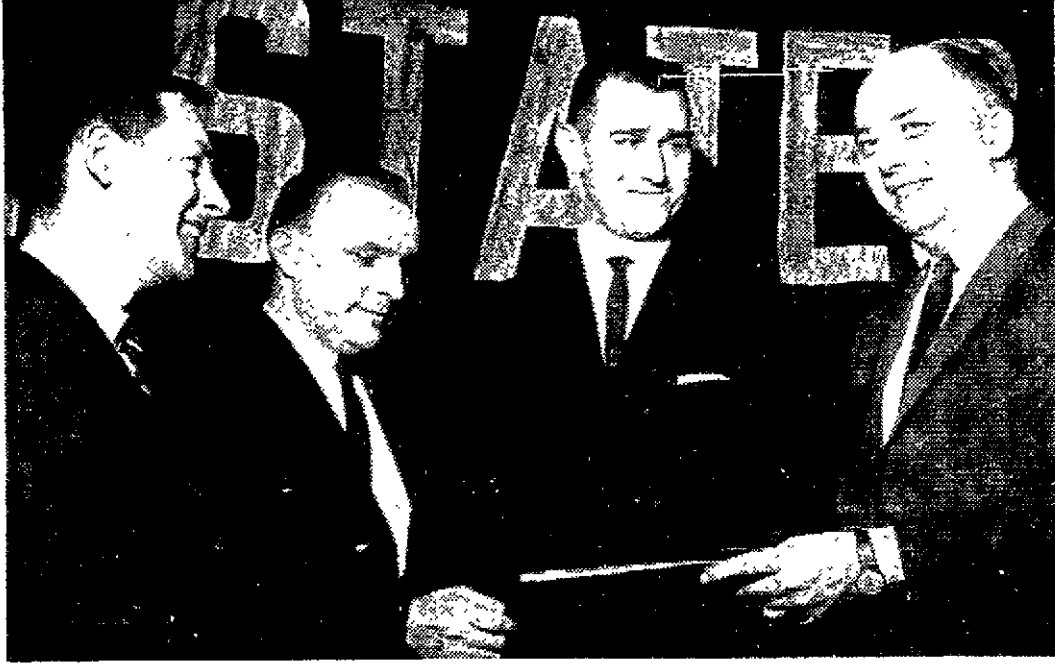

"As responsible members of the Republican Party we feel that the Byrnes slate is unquestionably the better way to assure victory in Wisconsin," Dennis Herring, county Romney for President chairman, stated.

He continued, "While our enthusiasm and support of Governor Romney has increased because of his recent demonstration that he is willing to accept the national role, we feel it would be foolhardy to jeopardize the Wisconsin situation by going ahead with the Romney slate."

The club indicated in the event the Byrnes plan should fall through, the picture might change. An expansion to Winnebago and Brown counties convinces us that this attitude is reflected throughout the Fox River Valley Romney supporters.

Dr. R. G. MacDonald, New York City, a 37-year member of TAPPI was honored at the dinner concluding the meeting of the Lake States Section of TAPPI in Appleton Tuesday. From left are Kenneth Arndt of Peavey Papers, Ladysmith, president of the Lakes States section; Dr. John Wollwage, of Kimberly-Clark Corp., national TAPPI president; Dr. MacDonald and Dr. Harry F. Lewis of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, Appleton. Dr. MacDonald has been with TAPPI since 1927. He is now its national treasurer, and is a former national executive secretary. The Lake States Section of TAPPI presented its annual C. J. West Memorial award for the best technical paper presented at its Appleton meeting Tuesday. From left are Gerald Derus, Kaukauna, and Harold Willemson, Appleton, both of Combined Locks Paper Co., second place award for a joint paper; James Lettenberger, Menasha, of Bergstrom Paper Co., first place award, and Carl Matson, Neenah, vice president of the Lake States section. '63 Was Second Best Year For Appleton Home Building

Total $500,000 Less Than All-Time High Set in 1955

New home construction in Appleton during 1963 amounted to $536,800, the second best year surpassing the old mark by for residential construction in the city's history.

The total was $500,000 behind the $5,830,045 record in 1955. These figures are in the annual report of Building Inspector Charles Magnette to be presented to the council Wednesday night.

Records show there were 426 permits issued for new residences in 1955. Total for the past year was 277.

Only twice in the city's history has home building topped the $5 million mark in one year. Magnette said the 1963 construction season was longer than usual due to favorable weather. Last year's home construction exceeded the 1962 figure of $3,802,400 by $1,653,400.

In December, permits for 10 new homes valued at $184,500, were issued, par for this time of year.

Magnette said there are indications 1964 will be another good year for residential building, and construction in general.

2nd Open House Set Sunday at New High School

KIMBERLY — A second open house is planned at the new $2,000,000 Kimberly High School from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday for persons unable to make the open house and dedication held in the late fall of 1963, according to Ray Hamann, superintendent of schools.

Teachers will not be on hand for the Sunday affair as they were at the official program, but student guides will be available to answer questions on the building. The entire building will be open to inspection.

An estimated 5,000 people toured the plant last fall, but school officials and school board members have had requests from many unable to make the initial affair thus a second open house was planned.

2 1/2-Year-Old Treated After Drinking Acid

Appleton police were asked to provide an emergency hospital escort Tuesday for a 2 1/2-year-old Appleton boy who swallowed boric acid.

The boy, Andrew Rauch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rauch, 124 E. Hoover St., was treated and released at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

His mother said she was using the acid to treat an 8-month-old child's eye, and Andrew accidentally got a hold of the bottle.

Litigation Delays School Bond Issue

Appleton Officials Say City Can't Borrow Funds Unless Court Question Is Resolved

The City of Appleton will not be permitted to float a $1.8 million bond issue for Albert Einstein School while litigation still is pending against the board of education.

This position was taken Tuesday by the board of public works and City Clerk Elden Broehm.

The board questioned if the city could negotiate the bond issue if the school board enters a court test over its awarding of the plumbing contract.

Wenzel Brothers, Inc., Menasha, was awarded the contract on its low bid of $87,800. However, a spokesman for R. Selig and Sons Inc., Appleton, said Tuesday his firm will go to court, alleging "illegal bidding procedures".

Broehm said any court action would prevent him from signing a non-litigation certificate, a requirement of bonding companies.

Construction Lag

The school board says construction already is a year behind schedule and litigation would cause further delay.

City Atty. Frederick Froehlich who earlier Tuesday said he did not think court action would delay progress, told the public works board he had not known about the non-litigation certificate.

The board said it would recommend preparation of the bond ordinance for adoption by the city council so the city is prepared to borrow when legal questions are settled.

Dr. Gunderson is dean of the School of Letters and Science and chairman of the economics department at OSC.

Dr. Gunderson holds a bachelor's degree from Ripon College, a master's degree from Columbia University and a doctorate from the State University of Iowa.

Top Farmer To be Named

Outstanding Young Man From Kaukauna Area Will be Cited

KAUKAUNA — An outstanding young farmer from the Kaukauna area will be named at a 7:30 p.m. dinner meeting Thursday at the American Legion clubrooms.

The Jaycees and Wisconsin Gas Company, cosponsors of the program, have screened and interviewed many applicants for the honor and narrowed the field down to three finalists. The award will go to a farmer between the ages of 21 and 35 who has made extensive contributions to agriculture, has conservation abilities and shows an interest in community affairs.

Guest speaker for the program will be Robert Goetsch, Beaver Dam, outstanding young farmer of Juneau County. Goetsch will talk and show colored slides of a 6-month tour of Southern Rhodesia, Africa.

The affair is open to area farmers and their wives. Tickets are available from Jaycee members or the gas company offices.

Burt McIntyre, chairman of the Outstanding Young Farmer program, will be master of ceremonies.

Judges for the affair will be William Doyle, president of the Bank of Greenleaf, William Gilson, a livestock dealer, and Clem Hoelzel, former manager of Knauf and Tesch Grain elevator.

$72,000 Suit Settled for $20,000

OSHKOSH — A $72,000 lawsuit in Circuit Court resulting from a fatal automobile accident has been settled for $20,000.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Elda Evanson, 450 Boyd St., Oshkosh, widow of Earl J. Evanson, who died Sept. 9, 1961, at the age of 57 as the result of injuries received in the accident five days earlier.

Mrs. Evanson had asked $60,135 on behalf of her late husband and $11,855 for injuries she received in the accident.

Evanson was killed when the car in which he and his wife were passengers, driven by Otto Bahrke, 541 Monroe St., Oshkosh, collided with an auto driven by Mrs. Irene Unferth, route 1, Campbellsport, on U.S. 41 and for the future and discuss future building needs. They will present the proposed fiscal statement for the 1964-1965 school year, give data on the cost per student at Xavier and discuss contributions of each parish for educating its students.

In the suit Mrs. Evanson had charged Mrs. Unferth had failed to yield the right of way. The railroad's petition says the trains would be discontinued as of Feb. 18.

Two other trains also would be discontinued.

Railroad Asks ICC Okay to End Trains

Eliminating 2 Northwestern Runs Would Affect Valley Mail Service

Mail service to Appleton and be discontinued. The "North other Fox Valley communities Woods Fisherman," operating will be affected if a petition by between Chicago and Ashland, the Chicago and North Western and the "Wisconsin Lakes," a Railway system to discontinue weekend summer train from Chicago to Land O Lakes.

All these trains have been losing $5,100 a day, railway officials say. Operating loss in 1962 was $1,691,000, they reported.

Train 211, northbound, is the major night mail train to Appleton, especially for parcel post, according to Postmaster Francis Sumnicht. The train leaves Chicago at 9:15 p.m., arrives in Appleton at 2:55 a.m. and at Green Bay at 3:50 a.m.

Sumnicht said he is sure the train is discontinued, the postal department will make other arrangements, possibly with a highway post office truck, to get the mail here during the night. He said the railroad office in Minneapolis 400 "Flambeau" line said it would continue to operate three weekday trains in each direction between Green Bay and Chicago.

The service between Chicago and Milwaukee would consist of six southbound and five northbound trains on weekdays. If the request is approved, the line said it would add a sixth northbound Chicago to Milwaukee train with the discontinuance of Train 211.

Speakers Discuss Causes, Ways To Solve Problem of Prejudice

Lawrence Psychologist, UW Sociologist Talk to Overflow Audience in Appleton

Fox Cities residents were encouraged to make prejudice "unprofitable and unpopular" by Dr. Gilbert James, UW Fox Valley Center sociologist, in the second in a series of lectures on human rights here Tuesday.

Dr. James, a member of the UW Ford urban team, and Dr. Chester Hill, Lawrence College psychologist, spoke on the psychological causes, social effects and possible solutions to the problem of prejudice in the lecture sponsored by the Fox Cities vocational and adult schools.

They spoke to a more-than-capacity audience overflowing the auditorium in Appleton's Lincoln School.

'Simplify Life

Dr. Hill led off with a summary of the multiple factors which mold a prejudiced individual. Prejudice, he said, is "socially inherited," influenced by parental attitudes and social atmosphere. The anxiety and confusion felt by an insecure individual also causes him to become prejudiced as a protective measure, Dr. Hill explained.

"Black-white thinking" is typical of the prejudiced person's tendency to simplify life's complexities, Dr. Hill said. This can produce an illogical attitude such as "if you have any black blood, you're black; 'not,' if you have any white blood, you're white," he continued. The tendency to simplify encourages panacea solutions to problems, he said.

"To accept love from others, you had first better accept yourself, and love yourself," Dr. Hill concluded.

There is a considerable difference between verbal attitude and action attitude, or behavior, Dr. James stressed giving examples of research findings. He told of a sociologist who accompanied a Chinese couple throughout the United States. The couple, as part of a test, stopped at 250 different hotels and room facilities. They were refused service only once. Later the sociologist wrote each of the hotels asking if Chinese friends would be accepted as guests. Ninety per cent of the hotel replied "no."

Dr. James demonstrated similar inconsistencies in citing other research projects with union workers and student groups.

Problems of Migration

The problems created by group migration usually are wrongly identified with group or racial differences, Dr. James said. When people in an unfamiliar social and work situation don't know what is expected of them and their traditional social controls have been uprooted, trouble results, he said, noting that police problems in Chicago and Los Angeles reflect this fact.

Research on an urban housing project for Negroes which failed to reduce the crime rate as expected showed that removal of slums also had removed elements such as a church around which social patterns revolved, he said. The result was an increase in crime.

Winners of Coloring Contest

Get Set of 12 Storybooks

BY CAPPY DICK

A set of 12 famous storybooks --the Encyclopaedia Britannica "Great Books for Children" will be awarded to the boys and girls who win the national prizes in today's coloring contest. Five sets will be given away.

Each set contains these stories: "Tom Sawyer," "Treasure Island," "Robinson Crusoe," "Heidi," "Arabian Nights," "Andersen's Fairy Tales," "Alice in Wonderland," "Black Beauty," "Tales from Shakespeare," "King Arthur," "Robin Hood" and, in the 12th book, "Aesop's Fables" and "Pinocchio."

For a chance to win one of these beautifully illustrated sets of books, a young contestant must first win a local preliminary prize which is a magic trick called the Snapper. Ten Snappers will be given away, one to each boy or girl of the Fox Valley area whose entry is one of the five neatest and most original locally.

The local prize winners will compete automatically with local winners from all other cities where this column is published to find the five that are the neatest and most original nationally. These will win the "Great Books for Children."

Easy to Enter

The contest is easy to enter. All you have to do is use your paints or crayons to decorate the pennant in the picture above, using the colors of your school. Draw your school's monogram in the circle on the pennant.

After coloring, clip out the picture and paste it on a sheet of paper or a postal card. Add any decorations you believe will make it neat and original, using paints, crayons or cut-outs. Print your name, age and address beneath the picture. Address it to Cappy Dick's Midwest Contest at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Names of the prize winners will be published here. Their prizes will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

Central Colony to Get 6 Infirmaries

Building Commission Accepts Reynolds Recommendation for Housing of Mentally Retarded

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — A Republican-controlled state building commission which a week ago disputed the need for building four infirmaries for mentally retarded children Tuesday with a flourish ordered the construction of six of the buildings.

The structures will provide custodial care for about 700 patients, at a cost of construction of about $5,400,000 and at an annual operating cost of more than $2,000,000.

The action in an atmosphere of nervous tension between the Republican majority members and Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds, its presiding chairman, represented a significant victory for the governor.

Face Saver

The method represented a face-saving gesture for his Republican rivals whose votes control the proceedings.

The Republicans switched their position with the explanation that they had not fully understood the needs because of faulty statistical presentations. On an earlier occasion they had wrangled in violent anger with the governor about his methods of encouraging public pressure for more construction for the aid of the retarded.

Sen. Jerris Leonard of Milwaukee, one of the chief Republicans in the legislature and one of the angriest of the disputants during earlier discussions of the issue, declared:

"This shows that men of good will when informed will do the right thing."

McKay Apology

The meeting brought an apology to Reynolds from Assemblyman Curtis McKay, Ozaukee county Republican, who had fought against the construction of more than two additional facilities at earlier sessions. Last week he exploded in wrath as he disputed with Reynolds on the merits of the building proposal. McKay said he had been convinced by the figures presented by the state welfare department, and then told Reynolds that he was sorry that he had so far lost his temper as to talk about "punching you in the nose," at the session last week Reynolds thanked him for the apology, and said he respected McKay for the strength of his convictions.

McKay said he was sorry that he had permitted his emotions to "degrade the office of governor."

The uneasy commission meeting also produced a refusal by Leonard to withdraw his earlier angry criticisms of Reynolds, and an apparently embarrassing moment for Wilbur Schmidt, the influential director of the state welfare department.

Sen. Chester Dempsey of Hartland said he wanted to vote for only four new hospital units because that was what Schmidt had recommended. Other Republicans asked Schmidt whether he wanted six Schmidt said he hesitated to answer in the affirmative because of the many other pressing building demands of his department, including the reconstruction of the mental hospitals for mentally ill patients. The commission then voted for the six unit program without further interrogation.

Altonsi Motion

The motion for enlarging the program from four to six units was made by Assemblyman Paul Altonsi, the Republican majority leader in the state assembly, so that the record will show that the Republicans also have a liberal record on hospital building which Reynolds has made a principal issue in his annual campaigning.

The new structures, together with a 500-unit building now under construction at Chippewa Falls, will provide 1,100 additional beds for mentally retarded, and will meet 78 per cent of the need as measured by patients already approved for commitment but not yet admitted. The expansion will bring the bed capacity at the Central Colony near Madison to about 1,100. Ultimately it will be developed to hold about 1,500 patients.

Home Looted of Cash and Jewels

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police have disclosed that burglars took $112,000 in cash and jewels last Friday from the home of Norman Chandler, chairman and president of the Times-Mirror Co.

Sgt. Dale Dennis said Tuesday the loot was taken from two second-floor dressing rooms while Chandler and his wife were sleeping nearby.

Advise Johnson To 'Hold Line' With Panama

Dirksen Says GOP Supports Fighting Reassessing Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson got Republican advice today to follow a hold-the-line policy aimed at restoring relations with Panama without yielding U.S. treaty rights.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he believes the world is watching the Panama crisis to determine whether the new administration will make concessions when American interests are made the object of violence.

"The President certainly will have Republican support if he holds the line and doesn't yield to demands that we reassess our treaty rights," Dirksen said in an interview.

Amazing Position

"We are in the amazing position of having a country with one-third the population of Chicago kicking us around if we crumble in Panama, the reverberations of our actions will last around the world."

Dirksen said he had not been consulted about the administration's course in the Canal Zone crisis. He added he expects to see Johnson shortly.

The President briefed Democratic congressional leaders on the situation Tuesday.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the Conference of All Republican Senators, told the Senate the United States must be just in dealing with Panamanian complaints. But he took the same position as Dirksen, that treaty rights governing operation of the canal must not be watered down.

Goldwater May be Drafted for Senate Race ... Just in Case

BY WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater's draft number may come up again—this time with supporters of the re-election to the Senate.

He has said he will file for re-election to the Senate. The Arizona urging him to run for re-election to the Senate even if he becomes the Republican presidential nominee.

With Goldwater in the race for the GOP nomination, the draft organization that spent nine months urging him to seek the presidency has gone out of business.

There's talk today of another draft-style movement to provide some insurance against an unsuccessful bid for the White House next November.

No Organization

"So far there's nothing organized along this line that I know of," said Ted Kazv, the senator's administrative assistant. "But we've been receiving mail on it for some time."

Goldwater has not said what he will do about the Senate race if he wins the presidential nomination at the San Francisco convention opening next July Sept. 8 Arizona primary.

The senator's presidential campaign manager, Denison Kitchel, says there is support for such a move in Arizona and elsewhere.

A draft-style movement or a write-in renomination would provide Goldwater with a ready answer to his critics who point to his 1960 criticism of then-Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson for seeking re-election and the vice presidency at the same time.

Goldwater added, however, that Arizona supporters could take the matter out of his hands even if he withdrew from the Senate race.

That could come in the form of a write-in campaign for the Arizona primary.

Goldwater has the assurance of Arizona Atty. Gen. Robert Pickrell that he could run for both president and senator.

Against 2 Campaigns

But he says his inclination is against that strategy. "My feelings are against running for two jobs," Goldwater said in opening his campaign for the New Hampshire presidential primary.

Seeks GOP Nomination

Renk Says Campaign to Unseat Proxmire Will Be a Statewide Effort

MADISON (AP)—With the declaration, "We're off and running," Wilbur N. Renk of Sun Prairie said Tuesday night he would launch next week his Republican campaign to unseat Democratic Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin.

Renk had announced, as expected, earlier in the day that he would seek Republican nomination and endorsement as a candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Renk, a farmer and businessman, said he plans to cover "the whole state in the next two months. I will be getting up at 5 a.m. every day instead of my usual 5:45 a.m."

"I'll be at factory gates, stores and shopping centers renewing acquaintances made when I ran in 1962 and meeting new people," he said. His reference to 1962 related to his unsuccessful campaign for nomi-ination as the GOP candidate for governor.

As Renk announced his plans, Sen. Proxmire said in Washington in a Senate speech that Renk has "an excellent chance to win." He didn't make it clear in his Senate address whether he was referring to Renk's chances of winning the GOP nomination or the election.

An aide later quoted the senator as saying he was referring to Renk's chances of winning a place in the Senate.

Proxmire, who has not officially announced for re-election, told the senators Renk "will make the most formidable candidate of the Senate the Republican party of Wisconsin could put into the field. He has an excellent chance to win."

The senator told the Senate that in 1962 Renk lost in his successful campaign for nomi-

Smokers Fight Through Day of No Cigarettes

900 Left in Group Which Undertook To 'Kick the Habit'

BY ANTHONY DE NIGRO
NEW YORK (AP)—Scattered throughout this city today is a band of 900 tightly "ex-smokers," pampering themselves and shunning unpleasant decisions.

They have been told that if they can make it through the day without a cigarette they'll kick the habit.

Last Sunday, the day after the U.S. surgeon general's special report on the health hazards of smoking, 1,200 smokers gathered at Hunter College for a "five-day plan to stop smoking." They were put on a fruit diet, given pep talks and told to take long walks.

Third Clinic

The third clinic was held Tuesday night and, by all reports, the going has been rough. A sheepish minority of the depleted band admitted they had smoked one or more cigarettes, but said they were still in there trying.

The Rev. Elman Folkenberg, Seventh-day Adventist minister who is running the clinic, advised the audience to "sidestep every unpleasant decision tomorrow; be real nice to yourself."

Smoker Tension

The worst thing they could do, he said, would be to cause themselves tension. A smoker under tension—smokes.

The clinic is endorsed by the New York City Department of Health and the American Cancer Society, The National Health Foundation and Research Institute of the Seventh-day Adventist Church has given the clinics in several cities.

The fundamentalist church started the clinics several years ago as an aid to new members. The church forbids smoking.

City's Patrol Horses All Have Pneumonia

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—For the first time in the history of Golden Gate Park—now around 75 years—not a single mounted policeman patrolled there today.

No horses. All 27 have pneumonia, but city veterinarian Dr. William Motman said he expects them all to recover.

More Activity Seen for Civil Rights in 1964

Movement Picked Up Momentum Last Year With Widespread Demonstrations

BY DON MCKEE
ATLANTA (AP) — "More in Press interviews of about 30 '64," describes the outlook for white and Negro leaders in the civil rights movement which nearly 20 cities, North and South, last year picked up great momentum with widespread mass demonstrations.
This slogan of Edwin C. Berry, executive director of Chicago's Urban League, carries both trend toward conciliation by the hope of civil rights leaders for more changes and the resolve for more demonstrations repetition of last summer's upheaval.
Indications of what will happen in 1964:

1. A pickup in demonstrations in Mississippi and many parts of Alabama, he said.
But they will not likely reach the 1963 proportions.
"I am confident we will see a resumption of demonstrations in many communities across the South and the nation," said Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. of Atlanta, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.
Activities by civil rights groups likely will quicken within the next two months. But a trend toward negotiation, conciliation by white leaders trying to avert demonstrations might prevent a peak last summer's troubles reached in Birmingham, Ala., said King. It has not spread into Mississippi and many parts of Alabama, he said.
Reaction to the civil rights movement has brought changes in employment practices, said Ed Marciniak of Chicago, chairman of the Mayor's Commission on Human Relations.
"During 1963 employment opportunities in white collar, technical and professional jobs formerly closed to nonwhites multiplied beyond expectations," Marciniak said. "This pace will continue during 1964."
Concessions have reduced the need or threat of demonstrations in a number of cities.
3. Growing emphasis on better jobs.
As the obvious racial barriers fall, the civil rights drive shifts its point of attack to economic improvement of the Negro.
"It's turning to economic manners now," said Dr. John R. Cunningham, chairman of the Human Relations Commission in Charlotte, N.C. "Every area of the public life has been integrated here."
Selective Buying
Boycotts, or "selective buying" campaigns, have been effective in many areas where Negroes sought better jobs.

This tactic will continue to be widely used.
4. Voter registration.
With national elections coming up, voting strength will get more attention.
Dr. R. A. Hawkins, a Negro dentist in Charlotte, N.C., said voter drives would get the main emphasis in some areas, depending on the situation.
5. Civil rights legislation.
A big drive will be made by civil rights groups to get administration measures through Congress.
"If there is no civil rights bill approved, then it means a possible upheaval," said Andrew Freeman, executive secretary of the Urban League in Philadelphia.

Says Air Pollution, Not Smoking, Big Cause of Cancer
DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP)—A German scientist says a detailed study soon to be published will prove that air pollution—not smoking—is the chief cause of lung cancer.
Prof. Reinhard Poche of the Dueseldorf Medical Academy said the study is based on findings from seven pathological institutes in the steel-producing Ruhr State of North Rhine-Westphalia.
"On the basis of our examination covering many years I am obligated to state that the importance of smoking in causing lung cancer is certainly not as great as has been suggested," he said in an interview Monday.
Poche said the institute examined 1,229 cases of acute lung cancer during the past five years and also analyzed more than 26,000 official autopsy reports filed since 1908.
Poche said the highest rate of lung cancer was among people particularly exposed to exhausts, including traveling salesmen, traffic policemen and other people who spend much time on the roads.

YMCA Setting for Teens Post-Holiday Party

Wed., January 15, 1964 Appleton Post-Crescent C1

The holiday season with all its gay festivities and happy times may be over, but junior high school students still love to get together for dancing, music, ping-pong and soft drinks.

All seventh, eighth and ninth grade students were invited to the party Saturday evening at the YMCA Youth Center. Although the committee did not choose a theme or construct decorations, it turned out to be a night of good informal fun.

Gal Finds Roommate's Father To be a Lecherous Old Elk

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a son to believe he is a lecherous 29-year-old career girl who old elk shares an apartment with another career girl who is my age.

Nina (not her real name) is a fine person and we get along well. But I don't know about her father.

The old gentleman is 73, white-haired, a snappy dresser and has been a widower for about 10 years. At first I thought he was being think he's thinking? Or am I mistaken, as he claims? — Roomie

He dropped over twice last week when he knew Nina was at her aunt's for dinner. Last night after Nina had left for the weekend he showed up at 9:30 P.M. I tried to be pleasant although I resented the intrusion. When I offered to make some tea he pulled me on his lap. I told him to behave or get out. He said he was only joking and accused me of having no sense of humor.

I told him last night to take his choice. If he wants to live half the week with them he can leave me alone the other half of the week. He replied, "I can always get another girl friend but I can never replace my children." I told him that he was a fool because one of these fine days his kids will be married and he'll be alone. He seemed shook but didn't reply.

MEASURE UP FOR GIRDLES The proper way to measure yourself for a girdle or panty girdle is to hold the tape measure level and snug around the smallest part of your waist. If you measure less than 24 and up to 26 your correct size is small. Over 26 and up to 28 is medium. Over 28 and up to 30 is large. After you know what size to ask for, it is not important to try a panty girdle on in the store. However, if you're buying your very first one, it's best to try on several styles to be sure the fit is comfy and doesn't bind in any way. Panty girdles for growing girls should do no more than serve as a reminder to watch that post ure and keep your stockings securely fastened. (Copyright 1964)

The Fashion Business has a new entry — the U. S. State Department. These Ecuadorian Panama straw hats exemplify the ability of unemployed Indian weavers in Ecuador to create style under the Alliance for Progress. The hats were seen at Sally Victor's fashion showing in New York — attended by two State Department representatives. (AP Wirephoto)

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

No Sneeze, No Wheeze

From the beauty angle, one of the most annoying allergies is a sensitivity to hair spray. There are times when you just can't do a thing with your locks unless you spray. And that you could never do if it made you wheeze, sneeze and break out in a rash. Here's where new, hypo-aller-people. Yet it manages to hold the hair with a gentle, firm hand. As it is water-soluble, touch-ups may be given a sprayed coiffure with a moist comb. Another hair "saver" for sensitive women takes the form of hypo-allergenic hair set. While packaged in aerosols, this is not a holding spray. It is applied after hair has been roller-set or pin-curlled—before the drying operations.

The purpose of applications is to give longer-lasting waves and curls, more body and bounce to the hair. The results are achieved through formulation with natural protein, a building block of the hair's own construction.

Added to holding and setting sprays, a hypo-allergenic conditioner would bring to full complement the aids that keep hair groomed between shampoos. And what a boon that would be for lovelies with low-tolerance to the standard groomers that so safely beautify the majority of heads.

Have Reason For Taking Any Finesse

The reason for climbing a mountain, experts tell us, is that it's there. You need a better reason for taking a finesse.

West opened the deuce of hearts, and South took the finesse because it was there. East won with the king of hearts and naturally shifted to the queen of spades.

It's cruel to go on with the story. East easily set up his spades and got in with the king of diamonds in time to cash them. East took a heart, a diamond and three spades, defeating the contract.

"Nice work," North congratulated his partner. "But I once knew a man in Singapore who could have gone down two."

Refuse Finesse
Pay no attention to North's remark. With luck, you may never meet that man in Singapore. Just refuse the heart finesse at the first trick, and your game contract is safe.

Put up the ace of hearts, get to your hand with the ace of clubs, and lead the nine of diamonds for a finesse. Even if the finesse loses, you are sure of five diamonds, three clubs, and two other aces.

When a finesse stares you in the face, learn to stare right back while you consider both possibilities. Surprisingly often it will pay you to refuse the finesse.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold: S Q J 10 3 H K 8 5 3 D K 5 2 C 6 4. What do you say?
Answer: Bid one heart. Respond "stepwise" (cheaper suit first) when you have two 4-card suits.

Potatoes Give Diet Variety of Minerals

BY JUDITH STELLWAGEN

After the holiday bills have arrived chances are you feel as though you need a budget stretcher. Using potatoes in the daily menu will do just that. An average sized baked potato contains 97 calories, few when compared to a two-ounce candy bar with Miss Stellwagen 290 calories.

Potatoes contain not only calories. They are one of our most economical sources of valuable nutrients. Among these are calcium, phosphorus, iron, niacin and vitamin C. Surveys show that the American people spend about 2 per cent of their food dollar on potatoes but receive 3 per cent of their total intake of energy, 4 per cent of the iron, 5 per cent of the thiamine, and 10 per cent of their ascorbic acid from this source. Actually the calorie content of potatoes is far less important than the nutrients contained within the skin.

Raw potatoes should be stored in a dark, dry, cool place. If the temperature is much above 50 degrees the potatoes will quickly shrivel and sprout.

Some potatoes discolor after cooking. This is not due to the way they were prepared but to the fact that the potato contains iron. Although the appearance of these potatoes is not particularly appetizing, nutritional value and flavor remain unchanged.

If you have difficulty in getting Vitamin A foods into your family's diet, sweet potatoes are an excellent source. Choose potatoes which are bright yellow or orange in color.

Today grocery shelves hold boxes of new potato products. These do not contain the same nutritional value as the whole raw potato. Research at Montana State College has disclosed that fresh cooked potato products contain two and one-half to five times more ascorbic acid than any of the dehydrated cooked potato products. This is not to say that the dehydrated products have no value — they do, of course. As a convenience item, they are an important part of the food buying of today's consumer. But they should not be purchased with the intent to eliminate the fresh potatoes completely. Each has its place in today's meal planning.

Potatoes can be served in many interesting ways. The delicate flavor can easily be enhanced by the addition of a few spices or herbs. Chives, onion powder, or thyme combine well with potatoes.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

SILLY SUPERSTITION

Dear Louise: I was considering getting a set of steak knives for a friend as a wedding gift. But I have been told that it wouldn't be correct for such a gift would break a friendship. Is this true and will you please clarify it?

Louise Davis

Answers:

Davis Many a bride has received steak knives for a wedding gift with no break of friendship. Your friend's remark is a silly superstition that a gift having a sharp point such as a brooch, letter opener or pointed knife will break a friendship unless the receiver "pays" for it by giving a penny! Go ahead and give the steak knives. If you happen to be overly superstitious, ask the bride to hand you a penny. She may not know what it's all about. If she doesn't, then tell her and make a joke of it. Then seal your friendship by putting the penny in your purse!

'JUNIOR' NOT FOR GIRLS

Dear Louise: We are expecting our first baby. If a girl, my husband wants to name her after me. He would like, for example, Mary Brown Smith Jr. I often hear people referring to "Janet, junior," but I have never seen anything like that in print and wonder if it would be correct.

Louise Davis Answers:

No. "Junior" belongs only to males. When anyone says "Janet, junior" it is said unofficially in conversation to identify the daughter from her mother.

Booklets On Attic Bedrooms

The following have this type of literature for free or nominal cost: Directions Simplified, Inc., Briarcliff Manor, N.Y.; Popular Mechanics, 200 E. have articles on this type of project frequently.

Q: Our driveway developed a few holes which we have just had patched. Would a concrete sealer help to keep it from breaking up? If so, where to get it and how to apply it?

A: A concrete sealer will protect the surface against wear and pitting from moisture penetration, etc. If the holes in your driveway were due to an improperly mixed concrete, or to improper drainage underneath (causing heaving during winter); relaying the driveway, I'm sorry to say, is the only permanent, satisfactory remedy. I suggest obtaining a copy of a leaflet on the proper laying of driveways from the Portland Cement Association, 33 W. Grand Ave., Chicago 10. Masonry supplies dealers have concrete sealers; follow manufacturer's directions.

Q: We have a cement block basement which has been painted once. A few blocks have shown wet spots and some moisture has come in the basement. What is the best type of paint to use in waterproofing the walls? Is there any particular time of year this should be applied?

Live Within Your Income

Standard of Living, Age Keys to Supporting Child

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management
Dear Miss Feeley:

Would it be possible for you to make out a cost-of-living chart to show whether I can claim my two children for income tax dependents?

I am divorced and have a girl aged 10 and a boy aged 12. I do not have to pay doctor or dental bills. The children go to a public school. They live with their mother who has since re-married, and lives in an average to better income home.

I contribute $1,300 a year ($25 a week) for both children, or $12.50 weekly for each child. I do not wish to confer with the children's mother as to how this money is spent, so I would appreciate a breakdown of expenses for children this age. Also, would this vary much from year to year, as I have to pay support until they are of age?

I read your articles and find them very informative. If you cannot help me, do you know of someone who can?

E. T. Rochester, N.Y.

Dear E. T.
I can give you some basic cost-of-living estimates for children this age, but I advise you to talk your specific situation over with a tax expert. The following figures are based on the low-income scale, and were compiled by the Community Council of Greater New York.

For a girl, 6-11 years old: $471 a year. This estimate includes food, clothing, personal care, transportation, school expenses. It does not include the child's share of housing cost.

For a boy, 12-15 years old: $645. Same provisions as above. If the child's share of housing were figured in, the total yearly sum needed for both children would be $1,359.

Of course these figures do not prove that the $1,300 you contribute toward your own children's support covers all their needs, one-third, or one-half. That's why you need advice in dealing with an actual standard of living. In order to know what your tax deduction privileges really are.

The cost of raising children does indeed increase with the years. For instance, based on these same low-income estimates quoted above, a girl aged 12-15 years needs a minimum of $608 a year, not including cost of housing. And a boy 16-20 years, $777 a year. So better be prepared. You mention that your children are living in an average to better income home environment, so take that into consideration in future planning.

Dear Miss Feeley:
Please give me a budget for a single working girl. I am 23 years old. My take home pay, after hospitalization and life insurance, is $50 a week. My monthly expenses are as follows:
Rent (sharing an apartment), $45; utilities, $9; oil heat, $3.75.

I have high doctor's bills which I wish to get paid off. I am pretty well off. I am pretty well off where clothes are concerned. My car is old and while repairs are low, as my father helps me maintain it, I wish to save for a newer car.

How much should I be saving, and what is a proper amount for food? I find myself very confused where money is concerned and hope you can help me get organized.

J. K., Royal Oak, Mich.
Dear J. K.

One reason a new wage earner gets confused about money is that the pay check comes by close self-addressed, stamped the week while most bills come by the month. The easiest solution is to budget on a weekly basis. That's when you see the money in your hand, and dividing it up into various categories makes more sense. Try putting the proper sums for each budget item in different envelopes, plainly marked. You can arrange your own set. If you budget this way for a while, you'll soon get the knack of thinking in terms of monthly sums and can do a more formal kind of banking.

Now for the weekly split-up. Rent, $11.25; household operating costs, including laundry, cleaning supplies, and utilities, $3.75; food, $8 — assuming you and your roommate cook some meals at home; clothing, $3.75; savings, $3; personal expenses, $5; miscellaneous, $2; payments toward the medical bills, $9; recreation $2.25 car operating cost, $3.

If I were you, I'd put the idea of a newer car out of my mind for the present. You really need to build up a financial cushion, first, and you don't have a great deal to save anyway. As long as the old car will get you there and back — and your father's generosity holds — try to make do.

Your gasoline allowance is so modest right now the car couldn't be over-worked. After you pay off the doctor's bills, you'll have a little more leeway in distributing your salary. A little more for clothes, a little more for food, a little more for savings.

(You can write Mary Feeley in care of this newspaper. Enclose the pay check by close self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.)

State Road Study Planned For Darboy

Community Hopes
To Get Traffic
Slowed at School

DARBOY — Traffic problems here will be the subject of a study by a State Highway Commission engineer.

Plans for the forthcoming survey were disclosed by Darboy American Legion commander, Kenneth Schmalz, at a Legion meeting. The post and Holy Angels Catholic congregation have been prime movers in a determined drive to end the hazardous traffic conditions which community residents claim exists.

The letter from the highway commission indicated recommendations for corrective measures would be made once the survey is completed. Darboy residents appealed directly to the commission and all other efforts failed. The post and congregation petitioned the Calumet and Outagamie county boards asking for reduced speeds in the school zone, ambleway in distributing your salary. A little more for clothes, a little more for food, a little more for savings.

(You can write Mary Feeley in care of this newspaper. Enclose the pay check by close self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.)

Hear Reports On Book Sale

KAUKAUNA — Members of the Afternoon and Evening Homemakers Clubs were informed at recent meetings that the fund raising cookbook sale project was a complete success.

Proceeds of the sale will be used for community projects to be determined at future meetings. The cookbooks contain favorite recipes submitted by the over 175 members of the two organizations. They were sold during the holidays.

Speaker at the afternoon session was Willis Baer, superintendent of electric and water department for the water utility. After a talk on "Electricity In Your Home," Baer conducted a question and answer period. Mrs. John Goska will speak on "Planning for Hospital Patients" at a Feb. 7 meeting.

Talk on Coiffures
The Evening club heard a talk on "Hair Styling" presented by William Kreil of the City College of Cosmetology. Using illustrations, he pointed out hair styles to be chosen for specific shapes and types of faces. He also discussed hair coloring and the selection and care of wigs.

Kenneth Smith will speak on "Speech Therapy" at the Feb. 6 meeting of the club.

Rison and Buchanan. A complicated road maintenance and police enforcement situation has resulted. The campaign for reduced speeds in the school zone and better roads began more than two years ago. It has been the subject of many meetings but no action.

Grandpa Hughes Gets 175,000 Messages

Letter Avalanche to Actor Santos Ortega Proves Popularity of 'As World Turns'

Santos Ortega has just celebrated the first of his two 70th birthdays. The second one, 15 years hence, will have to be anticlimax.

Ortega, a 55-year-old actor, has played the role of Grandpa Hughes on "As The World Turns" since the popular soap opera began on CBS. Recently, Grandpa celebrated his 70th birthday. It was announced at the end of the show that anyone who wanted to could send a birthday card to Grandpa. A postoffice box number was announced and shown.

Over 175,000 cards, packed into mail bags that literally filled one office at the show's advertising agency, arrived. And most of the people took the time to add a personal message to the character.

"If you are really, truly having a birthday, I'll be celebrating with you," wrote a woman in Canajoharie, N.Y. "I'll be 71 and busy as a newspaper writer and grandmother of four."

"Please send me a picture of the family," from a fan in Plain City, Ohio, who added, "I hope Lisa and Bob get back together."

A Pittsburgh, Pa., fan wished Grandpa Hughes "good health and happiness. I have watched 'As The World Turns' for the last seven years, since I came to this country. I hope it will be on the air for many more years. Please let Penny have some happiness with Neil. Also, let Ellen get married and have children. That would please me more than anything else."

Grandpa Favorite

A woman from Dallas, Texas, wrote "I don't have a real grandpa. So you are one of my favorite people on television."

A young Hayward, Calif., housewife wrote that she began watching "As The World Turns" as a summer activity while a college student. "Now more than five years later I'm watching the show right after I put my year-old son to bed for his afternoon nap. I hope for your sake and mine that we will have more years of good entertainment."

"I know many mothers just love you in the story and as a person," said a Quarryville, Pa., woman. "I hope you have Santos Ortega, Known to thousands as Grandpa Hughes on "As the World Turns," is shown with actress Rosemary Prinz opening some of the 175,000 letters and cards he received for his 70th birthday anniversary. Actually, it was Grandpa Hughes who was 70 on the TV show. Ortega is only 55 and has been with the popular soap opera since it began on CBS.

many blessings on your birthday. and hearing his voice. I wish he could be on your show some time."

Letter From Shut-Ins

A woman from Tulsa, Okla., wrote "My husband and I are shut-ins, 88 and 80 years old respectively. We have been watching your television show for 20 years and love you all like you were real friends. We have a son who is an actor. We occasional see him on television and what a thrill it is seeing him

"You are my idea of a wonderful Grandpa," a Houston, Texas, woman writes. "My friends and I get together and compare notes about the program," says a fan from Agawam, Mass. "Anyone who doesn't watch is sort of left out of our conversation."

5 Greatest Discoveries On TV Show

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2)—Chronicle reports on what it and the magazine, Scientific American consider the five greatest scientific discoveries of the last 15 years. This could have been an important, but dull, hour; here it becomes exciting through imaginative staging. Five scientists who have been involved in these projects (mapping the galaxy, cracking the genetic code, the laser, the mid-ocean ridge and rift, and the fourth force) demonstrate the implications of each.

8-9 (Channels 4-5)—Espionage has some major flaws, but essentially it is an intelligent drama. Its main thesis is a condemnation of the basically decent Germans who stood and watched as the Nazis committed their horrors.

7-7:30 (Channel 11)—Nothing new in The Patty Duke Show, but it's done engagingly. This is an old hat story about new dresses—Cathy makes a dress, her friends admire it, so Patty goes into the dress manufacturing business, with expectable results.

8-9 (Channel 11)—Phil Harris plays it straight on Ben Casey and it's a shame. A little comedy relief is desperately needed in this dreary tale of a skid row complete if it did not have a grandpa as wise and understanding as you. Your performance is magnificent," writes a Nashua, N. H., housewife. "You'd almost believe that it's a true life drama unfolding instead of a soap opera."

From the mail, 175,000 people agree.

hum who faces the loss of an eye.

8:30-9 (Channel 2)—There's good fun on The Dick Van Dyke Show, but it lacks a satisfactory punch line. A new neighbor, (Tony Easley) brings out the matchmaker in Mary Tyler Moore. There are two candidates—old reliable Sally (Rose Marie) and cousin Donna (Lyla Graham)—and the bachelor seems to fall for both.

9-10 (Channel 2)—Two skills in ent Hour makes a bold effort which the humor is somewhat forced give The Danny Kaye Show one of its weaker efforts. In one, Danny is a marriage counsellor, trying to help Jackie and Marilyn Lovell while having his own troubles. The other traces the early career of Noel Talent (Kaye), with Cooper as the movie director who made him what he is.

9-10 (Channel 4-5)—The Elevator to be adult, but fails because to be adult, but fails because the story line is too weak. Individual scenes here are fine, and the show deserves commendation for attacking a taboo subject—a man's inability to consummate his marriage.

'Johnny North' May Prove TV Innovation

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Johnny North" has all the aspects of a theatrical movie—name, cast, location shooting, sizable schedule.

But it's a pilot film for what may be a revolutionary innovation in television programming. Television long has shown movies that have been played out in theaters. The medium has also used half-hour, hour and 90-minute filmed series. If "Johnny North" is successful, it could be the start of a series of 2-hour films that would be the equivalent of features shown in theaters. NBC has ordered the initial film from Revue Studios with an option for 20 more.

Hope for New Era

"This could open a whole new era in television, and I hope it does," said Siegel. "I believe television suffers by being confined in the artificial limitations of a half-hour or hour show."

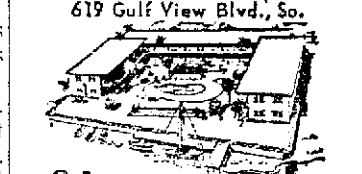

Siegel figures to shoot 30 days and at least half of the film has been made on location. "NBC put up half the budget, which was scheduled at $600,000," said the director. "But I think the final cost will be closer to $750,000."

How can Revue and NBC recoup? "Johnny North" and its possible successors can be shown in overseas theaters. And they might end up in U.S. theaters after showing on television.

19 Outagamie Workers to Get 'Cost of Living' Salary Raises

"Cost of living" salary in-house employees a flat 3 per ceases were granted to 19 cent wage increase and prom- courthouse employees Tuesday ised another 4 per cent in one by the Outagamie County Board. year for a 7 per cent total.

The resolution calling for wage boosts came from the county Courtney Schwartz, chairman of the benefits committee of the Courthouse Employees Association, indicated the group was satisfied with Tuesday's action. He said the benefits committee would meet within a few days to discuss the latest county board plan.

Instead, the committee recommended that since the cost of living has increased 7 per cent since 1958, salaries should have been increased by at least that much.

All employees would get raises to bring their increases up to the 7 per cent mark, based on 1958 salaries. Those whose increases total more or who already have reached that mark, will get none.

Supv. Glenn Pelton (Appleton 12th), personnel committee chairman, said the raises would cost the county $1,000 for the year. He proposed that $1,000 be transferred from the contingency fund to provide for the increases which range between $1 and $7 a month.

No action had been taken on the proposal when the board adjourned at noon.

McKinley School PTA To Hear Former Grad Speak on Psychology

Dr. James Campbell, senior clinical psychologist at Wisconsin Correctional Institution, Fox Lake, and a graduate of McKinley School, will speak to the McKinley PTA at 8 p.m. Thursday.

His topic will be child psychology.

Dr. Campbell graduated from McKinley Junior High School in 1942 and from Appleton High School in 1945. He received a B.A. from Lawrence College in 1949, and was a psychologist at the Wisconsin State Reformatory, Green Bay, for four and one-half years.

He attended the University of Washington, Seattle, Wash., from 1954 to 1960, earning his master's and doctor's degrees. He then returned to Wisconsin State Reformatory, Green Bay, for three years as a clinical psychologist, before going to Fox Lake. He was a part-time instructor in psychology at the University of Wisconsin centers in Manitowoc and Green Bay, and conducted part-time private practice in Green Bay.

Handicapped 7-Year-Old Seeks Home

Morgan School orthopedic department is looking for a boarding home five days a week for a handicapped girl.

The seven-year-old child's doctor recommended she attend the orthopedic school for treatment and educational purposes. She is from Wisconsin Rapids.

The school will pay the boarding parents a rate of $18 to $20 a week for five-day care. The girl will return home on weekends and during vacation periods. She will stay in Appleton on weekends only if weather conditions make it necessary.

The school provides the mid-day meal and furnishes transportation to and from school. The child's parents are responsible for her clothing and medical and dental needs while attending school in Appleton.

The little girl cannot climb stairs, so she should board in a home with sleeping and bathroom facilities on the ground floor. She may share a bedroom with other children of the same sex as long as she has her own bed. Officials would like her to be in a home with other children.

Persons interested in providing a boarding home for the girl should phone Mrs. Robert Getschow, physical therapist, or Rolland Nock, principal, at Morgan School, RE 9-3121, Extension 27.

The little girl is a cerebral palsied child. She is able to talk and feed herself. She wears leg braces and is not able to walk without assistance. The school would provide a wheelchair for her.

Payne also had bailed out of the stricken, eight-engine bomber, but he failed to survive sub-zero cold and his body was recovered this morning.

A spokesman for the Strategic Air Command said there was evidence that Payne died of exposure after suffering shock and pitifully wandering around at the point of his descent.

Meandering tracks in the deep snow about the area indicated that Payne had lost his sense of direction after freeing himself from his parachute. The chute was found snarled in a tree.

He had taken with him some survival equipment, including an unneeded life raft, but had abandoned other gear, including the sleeping bag which might have helped him survive. His body, found about three miles from where he landed, was removed by sled to a cleared area for transfer by helicopter to Cumberland Airport.

No Sign of Shelter

There was no evidence that, like McCormick and Peedin, he tried to build a shelter against the razor-like wind or start a fire against the numbing cold. McCormick, commander of the crew, had said he believed all others had preceded him in bailing out before the plane went down during a flight from Westover Air Force Base, Mass., to Turner AFB, Georgia.

Pueblo Police Stop Indian War Dance

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — In some places, William J. Young complained, the Indian war dance is an honored form of art.

No so in Pueblo—at least not as Young does it.

He was arrested by police who said he created disturbances by staging Indian war dances at a number of taverns.

Taken before Magistrate John F. McGrath, Young said he had some Indian blood. He added he also had a train ticket to return him to Philadelphia.

The judge asked Young, 30, to use his ticket and police said today he had left.

Crowds Hear Wallace Preach States' Rights

Alabama's Governor Receives Courteous Hearings but Meets With Disagreement

BY PAUL WELLS

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Everywhere he went on his five-state invasion of the West to preach the gospel of states' rights, the intense governor found overflow crowds. They left him flushed with a feeling of success.

George Corley Wallace Jr., 44, a farm boy who became governor of Alabama and an evangelist of the South, spoke at six university campuses. ("We had about 50 invitations but these were all we could accept.")

The crowds, mostly students, listened courteously and with interest, though with obvious occasional disagreement. There were some boos.

Pickets Everywhere

Civil rights groups picketed wherever Wallace appeared. The demonstrations were orderly and peaceful. The governor called his Western reception "courteous and friendly."

Wallace made it plain he'll continue to battle what he calls the dangerous Goliath of a federal government grasping for totalitarian power.

The majority of the people apparently disagree, but that makes no difference to him. He thinks the world has gone ahead too fast and it, not the South, is out of touch with reality.

Once Amateur Boxer

Fighting is not new to him. Nearly 30 years ago he was amateur bantamweight boxing champion of his state. In World War II he was a B29 bomber flight engineer. Last year he resisted integration of the University of Alabama to a point just short of violence.

Wallace carried his crusade into the West in a state-owned plane, justifying its use by trying to lure new industry to Alabama.

"We've already lined up two branch plants for our state out of six industrial conferences," he said.

But the main purpose of his eight-day swing was "to bring the message."

2 Principal Themes

He kept hammering away at two main themes:

—The civil rights bill pending in Congress is a "federal power grab" which will usurp state and local government, and personal property rights.

—The world has been given a distorted picture of the South and its racial problems.

He indicated he may enter the primaries in Oregon, California, Ohio, Illinois, Maryland and New Hampshire "so we can talk about some of the real issues involved."

"I know I can't win," he said, "but it will give me a chance to let the people know what's going on—let them know the dangers they face from the encroachments of their own government."

Wallace said he will support unpledged presidential electors and the South, "tired of being kicked around" by both major political parties, will support the one that "promises the least kicking."

Sign at Riverview: 'Old Age Is Not a Defeat; It Is a Victory'

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

On the wall of the recreation room at Outagamie County's Riverview Sanatorium and General Hospital, a modest sign proclaims a cryptic truth. It reads: "Old Age Is Not a Defeat. It is a Victory."

For Dr. John G. Russo, plain-speaking, forthright superintendent and medical director of the institution, the sign might also contain the words: "It is also a challenge." The challenge is for the doctor who has progressive ideas in the field of geriatrics, the aim of which is to increase the productiveness and enjoyment of elder citizens.

Too many of the aged come to the hospital in poor condition both physically and mentally. Some come from the homes of their children; some from nursing homes and hospitals.

"They've been doted on too much, in many cases," said Dr. Russo. "They've been given pills for their every complaint—and old people have a lot of complaints. Some of them come in clutching a cigar box full of pills. But I find that in 90 per cent of the cases, the pills aren't necessary."

Starts the Cure

"Sometimes it takes me ten days to get their bowels back into condition. Then I have to cure bed-sores. Then I must build the patient up physically."

This is another in a series of articles on old age and the Riverview Sanatorium and General Hospital at Little Chute.

And then, finally, it is necessary to make them emotionally responsive, alert, useful and happy."

One 87-year-old man was transferred to Riverview. His principal treatment had been at least ordinary. He had been kept in bed under sedatives for months. He was covered with bedsores; they had permitted him to lie in one position. They had catered to his every whim. And the old man was tired of living, spoiled physically and mentally.

"We cured his bedsores, built him up," said Dr. Russo. "But he came here to die and he was planning on it. When we got him, he was moribund—ready for death. He refused to eat. He was, almost in fact, a dead man."

Dr. Russo talked to him, chided him, urged him to eat. "Don't be a silly old man," he told him. "The Lord doesn't want you yet. Now eat."

Forced Into Activity

But the doting, the poor health, the emotional strain of months of being bedridden had taken their toll. The hospital staff fed him literally every hour, with liquids. Some medication helped. Then, the doctor said in a matter of fact way, "I pushed him out of bed," his term for forcing activity.

They "pushed" him into sensitivity, into the game room where he was encouraged to "use his brain", into the hobby shop where he was led into "doing something useful". He was "pushed" every step.

Today the old man is back home—and happy.

Dr. Russo dislikes prescribing tranquilizers for his elderly patients. He employs medication he calls "mood elevators."

"I want them to use every skill they have, every brain. Old people are entitled to dignity and they don't get it lying in bed in a tranquilized stupor," he said.

Resist Exercise

When the old folks come to the hospital along the banks of the Fox River, they don't want to do anything, said Dr. Russo. "Most of them have been put in bed, fed three times a day; that's all. I've found it wise to go slow with them for the first two weeks. Then I 'push' them. But it takes patience and you have to be a quasi-psychiatrist and employ mostly just common sense."

Dr. Russo believes that many medical men are not fully equipped to treat geriatric patients. Geriatrics is not an "exciting" field and not enough doctors are as fascinated with the subject as he is.

The doctor will tell you honestly that when he deemed it well to turn to geriatrics, he was unable at first to do it with a whole heart. He was a chest and X-ray specialist when Riverview, then a sanatorium exclusively for tubercular diseases, reviewed national statistics on tuberculosis and the increasing number of empty beds.

In 1912, the death rate from tuberculosis in the U.S. was

Supreme Court Decision Cites Voter Coercion

New Rules on Medical Costs Tax Deductions

BY SYLVIA PORTER
(In Collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

About the only bright aspect of our medical expenses is that the Treasury bears part of them through permitting us a tax deduction. I assume you know or easily can find the basic rules on medical cost deductions in any tax guide. The following information is new.

In 1963, the Treasury itself announced that it will let you deduct certain medical expenses about which we weren't sure in the past. It long has been clear that you could deduct your payments to physicians, surgeons, dentists, etc., authorized Christian Science practitioners, licensed psychologists, chiropractors and osteopaths. But this raised the question of whether you had to check a person's license or authority to determine whether you could claim a payment to him as a medical expense. Last year the Treasury answered with a clear "No".

You can deduct any outlay for medical treatment even if the practitioner is unlicensed and should have had a license under local law—the one exception being that you can't deduct payments for illegal operations, such as abortions. So even if you were treated by an unlicensed person, you can deduct your payment to him as a medical expense.

Court Differences
In 1963, the courts widened their important differences of opinion with the Treasury over which of your insurance premiums are deductible as medical expenses. The Treasury insists that your premiums qualify as medical expenses only to the extent that they pay for insurance against doctor bills, hospital costs, similar outlays. The courts, however, are willing to classify your premiums as deductible medical expenses even if they cover payments for loss of limbs, loss of earnings, etc.—as long as your policy is for accident and health insurance.

A court decision last year went even further. Many life insurance policies provide for a waiver of premiums in case of total and permanent disability. This court decision held that the portion of the life insurance premium you pay for this waiver provision also qualifies as a deductible medical expense. If you deduct your insurance premiums according to the court decisions, though, remember the Treasury disagrees and will disallow your deduction if it examines your return.

Even more extraordinary outlays were allowed by the courts as medical expenses in 1963—a signal to you to weigh carefully the tax advantages of any unusual medical expenses you may have had.

For instance, the rent paid for an apartment and salary paid to a shoe clerk in a store were both upheld by a court as medical deductions. Here is how this happened.

Doctor's Advice
A doctor advised a daughter that her mother was seriously ill and would need nursing care for an extended period. Since a given state or district than some other candidate. During the incumbency of many administrations, bills have been passed bestowing direct benefits on constituents in certain areas, and a political flavor has often surrounded the passage of such laws. Scarcely a year goes by that legislation isn't proposed or enacted which confers a financial benefit on the voters of a particular state or community. Members of Congress can, of course, champion the enactment of statutes that are beneficial only to particular groups of voters. But the new Supreme Court decision can be cited to argue that to mention the passage of such beneficial legislation in relation to a political campaign in a state or district now is a form of "coercion."

(Copyright, 1964)

the doctor said this care could be furnished better and cheaper away from a hospital, the daughter rented a two-room apartment which she transformed into a semi-hospital for her mother and a nurse. Then the mother recovered sufficiently to live with the daughter. But the daughter had to stop helping out in her husband's shoe store in order to care for her still-ailing mother and so the daughter paid a clerk to take her place. A court held that both the rent of the apartment and the salary paid to the clerk qualified as deductible medical expenses!

If you're one of several children contributing to the support and medical expenses of a parent, a 1963 tax case has an important warning to you on how to handle the medical expense deduction. Let's say that you are the child who pays more than half of your parents' support, including all the medical expenses and then is reimbursed by your brothers and sisters for their share of medical expenses—a common arrangement.

No Deduction
The Tax Court last year agreed with the Treasury that you can't deduct the portion for which you were reimbursed by your brothers and sisters. They can't deduct their repayments to you as medical expenses. And your parent didn't pay anything which he or she can deduct as medical expenses. In short, the fact that you were reimbursed by the other children for a share of the medical costs on your expenses makes it impossible return. This assumes that you

Chilton Angler Wins Top Prize In Pikerama

Don Schaefer Hooks Big Fish to Win Sturgeon Shanty

CHILTON—Don Schaefer, 348 N. State St., took top honors in the eighth annual "Pikerama" sponsored by Calumet County 4-H clubs when he hooked a pike that weighed in at six pounds, four ounces, according to Charles Nikolai, 4-H agent.

A seven-pound, six-ounce fish caught by Dick Hietpas won last year's pikerama competition. In spite of high winds and snow, 613 tickets were sold and 101 fish were registered. They ranged from the winning weight to one pound, one ounce. Placing second was Mrs. Earl Duchow, 410 Memorial Dr., Chilton with a catch of three pounds, seven ounces. Top prize in the competition was a sturgeon shanty. A quarter of beef was given for second place honors. All prizes were donated by area businessmen. Proceeds for Youth Camp Contest proceeds are being saved for a Calumet County youth camp. A yearly average of $250 has been netted from the pikerama. The money will be used for other 4-H activities if the youth camp does not become a reality, Nikolai said. Other winners were Werner Rosenbauer, Newton; Vernon Schacht, West Bend; Gerritt Stecker, Cedarburg; Alvin Kofarnus, Hilbert; Andrew Junk, Manitowoc; Ruth Fye, Chilton; Juno Graf, and Joe Goesser, rural Chilton. Weigh stations were set up at Calumetville, Brothertown, Quinney, Ray Ecker Road, Stockbridge Harbor and Fairy Springs.

Suit Against Leo Durocher

Dodger Coach Sued for $150,000 By Vermont Man

MIDDLEBURY, Vt. (AP)—Leo Durocher, Los Angeles Dodger baseball coach, has been sued for $150,000 in an alienation of affections suit brought by a local self-employed mason, Rene Morin of Swanton, Vt.

Durocher, in Vermont over the weekend to make a speech at an American Legion scholarship fund - raising dinner, was arrested and released on $50,000 bond.

His attorney, Lt. Gov. Ralph A. Fosse, said there was no association with Morin's wife, Anna, other than that she was the mother of Carolyn Morin who was a receptionist for Durocher in California.

The four daughters of Mrs. Morin issued a statement saying there was no truth in the alienation charge, and said that the father had "not acted normally toward our mother or ourselves for some months. He has even threatened us physically."

Miss Morin, who is in her 20s, and her three married sisters, Jean Hadley, Paula Sharkey and Elinor White, issued the statement through Fosse.

Morin's attorney must appear in court with the complaint in 21 days or the matter will be dropped.

LaCrosse State Keeps Perfect String Intact

Whitewater Quint Posts 86-69 Win Over Carroll '5'

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

La Crosse State battled to a one-point victory and preserved its perfect basketball record Tuesday night as three other state teams scored nonconference triumphs in only limited action.

La Crosse edged Winona, Minn., 68-67 on a converted free throw after time ran out. White River Falls whipped Bethel, Minn., 80-67. Northwestern downed Concordia of Milwaukee 76-66 and Illinois Normal beat Wisconsin-Milwaukee 72-66.

Ken Peterson hit the free throw which gave La Crosse its ninth victory without defeat. He was fouled at the final buzzer after Winona tied the score 67-67. On Dave Goede's basket with 45 seconds remaining, Doug Potter and Peterson scored 17 and 16 points, respectively, for the visiting Wisconsin team. Winona is 8-7.

It also has been reported that Indian Jack Jacobs would be assistant coach and that former Alouettes scout J. I. Albrecht is involved in the plans, possibly as general manager.

Ted Workman, owner of the Alouettes, said last week an American League franchise in Montreal would be uneconomical but Tuesday declared a UFL team in the city would benefit the Als as a farm team.

Hit 22 Each

Dave Hahn and Bob Budgins scored 22 points each in leading Whitewater to its victory over invading Carroll. Irie Grant set the scoring pace for Carroll with 18 points.

River Falls slowed a Bethel comeback in the second half in its triumph at St. Paul. Ken Lee topped all scorers with 22 points for River Falls. Bethel's Phil Bolinder hit 20.

Northwestern of Watertown grabbed the lead with about six minutes remaining and held on for its third victory in seven starts. Northwestern's Ron Hahn led the scoring with 16 points while Ray Elsfeldt and Jim Van Gellen paced the visitors with 12 each. Concordia has a 4-4 record.

Wisconsin-Milwaukee suffered its 12th defeat in 13 starts against the invading Bloomington, Ill., club John Crusier of normal set the game's scoring pace with 25 points. Denny Kocs hit 16 for UW-M.

Pay-for-What-You-Shoot Birds Found to be Difficult as Targets

BY DAVE DUFFEY

MOKENA, Ill.—Is there a difference between "game" and "wild" pheasants?

Many sportsmen think there is and for that reason belittle the pay-for-what-you-shoot establishments where hunters shoot stocked game, ignoring the fact that most of the so-called wild pheasants there are shot at during the pheasant season were pen-raised kill birds over top dogs, who and stocked just before the opening day.

But if you've become cocky about your ability to hit pheasants, there's some stocked birds in Illinois that will take the wind out of your sails in a hurry. They took me down a peg or two, just when I'd figured I knew most of the answers to nailing a flying pheasant.

The action took place recently at Armforth Kennels, where the English Springer Spaniel field trial champions owned by Phil and Julia Armour, Chicago are trained by Steve Studnicki. The kennel boasts the development of five national champions since 1950, and we had a chance to shoot over the three retired Friday's Games: Menasha at Kimberly, Clintonville at Two Rivers, Clintonville at Neenah, Shawano at New London.

BY RALPH MUELLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The top spot in the Mid-Eastern Conference will be at stake in the Kimberly Gym Friday night when the Papermakers play host to Menasha.

Both teams have reeled past their six other opponents but not in the same style. If the game is as close as the comparative scores indicate, it will be nothing short of that proverbial cliff-hanger that sports writers write about.

Waiting to gather up the pieces will be Shawano as the Indians, now with a 4-2 slate, meet New London. Clintonville is at Neenah and Kaukauna travels to Two Rivers in the other games.

Both the Bluejays and Papermakers have beaten three of their league opponents worse than the other co-leader.

Comparative Scores

Kimberly has trounced New London, 92-48; Kaukauna, 66-56; and Two Rivers, 85-69. Menasha defeated New London by 22 points (60-38); Kaukauna by only six points (66-61); and Two Rivers by only four points (49-45).

Coach Clem Massey's Jays whipped past Shawano, 64-50. Clintonville, 82-49; and Neenah, 66-49. Kimberly captured contests from those three opponents by lesser margins. The Wasps downed Shawano by one (44-43 in overtime), Clintonville by five (54-49), and Neenah by 14 (one less than Menasha at 71-57).

The Mason-coached Papermakers have the best offensive record with 412 points scored in six games (68.7 average). Menasha has the better defensive mark with only 292 points by opponents (48.7 average).

Menasha has opened a 105-point spread between its offensive and defensive point totals while Kimberly has only a 90 point advantage.

Lee Levknecht, of Kimberly, has a 10-point lead over Clintonville's Bill Melzer in the individual scoring race. Levknecht has netted 118 points in the six games for a 19.7 average.

Gophers Post 103-82 Win Over Spartans

Minnesota Moves Into Tie for Second in Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP)—Minnesota's sophomore-studded team projected itself into the Big Ten basketball title scheme Tuesday night with a 103-82 victory over Michigan State.

The victory gave the Gophers a 2-1 mark and left them only one-half game behind the idle leaders—Illinois, Michigan and Ohio State.

Michigan State, meanwhile, slumped to a 2-2 record. Minnesota climbed into a fourth place tie with Northwestern and this deadlock will be resolved Saturday when the two teams meet in a regionally televised game.

Although Illinois is idle this week, either Michigan or Ohio State will have to drop out of the lead. The two teams meet Saturday in the abbreviated schedule as do Iowa and Purdue.

Michigan State will entertain Notre Dame in non-conference competition.

Minnesota led by as much as 28 points in the second half as the Gophers crushed Michigan State. Sophomore Lou Hudson paced the Gophers with 23 points and Mel Northway added 21. Stan Washington led Michigan State with 26 points.

Weber Guns for Third Crown in All-Star Pin Meet

DALLAS (AP)—One of the strongest fields in the 23-year history of the All-Star Bowling Tournament is on hand for tonight's opening events.

The 127-pound St. Louis fireball, Dick Weber, will be gunning for his third straight championship in the $100,000 event. He would win $15,000 if he takes the title as he has done the past two years.

The greatest threat facing Weber probably is Don Carter, who has won four of the 15 All-Stars in which he has appeared.

Nearly half of this year's field of 288 men are veterans from other All-Star tournaments. Marion Ladewig, 49, of Grand Rapids, Mich., won the women's title last year over Bobbie Shaler of Chicago. Both are back.

Howie Young Glad, Sorry Over Penalty

Defenseman for Black Hawks Gets Suspension

CHICAGO (AP)—Howie Young, bowled his hot-tempered head and humbly said he was both glad and sorry over his latest penalty—a five-day suspension.

The verdict was handed down Tuesday by Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League and was considered a light sentence in some quarters.

Having already been sidelined three games since a so-called time-swearing outburst in Toronto on Jan. 4, the Chicago Black Hawk defenseman will be eligible to play Sunday night after completing his retroactive sentence.

"I'm glad the whole thing is all over and I'm sorry I caused played some good basketball, so much trouble," said Young after hearing the decision.

There had been rumors that Young might have been suspended for the remainder of the season or possibly for life.

However, Campbell held a preliminary hearing in Chicago last Saturday and Jim Norris, Marquette in Milwaukee Jan. 28 came to Young's defense claiming his player was unjustly heckled.

"Marquette has some good shooters," he said "It ought to be quite a game."

Will Invade Winneconne

Wolves Seek Share of Little 9 Lead

LITTLE NINE CONFERENCE
	W	L
Denmark	5	0
Hilbert	4	1
Reedsville	4	1
Winneconne	4	1
Hortonville	2	2

Friday's Games:
Freedom at Reedsville.
Hilbert at Wrightstown.
Denmark at Winneconne.
Bear Creek at Hortonville.
Omro at Shiocton.

Winneconne High School's Wolves face one of their biggest tests of the season Friday night when they entertain unbeaten Denmark, current leader in the Little Nine Conference.

Hilbert and Reedsville, partners in a 3-way tie for second place with Winneconne, will meet second-division opponents. In addition to the Winneconne-Denmark game, Friday night's card has Freedom at Reedsville, Hilbert at Wrightstown, Bear Creek at Hortonville and Omro at Shiocton.

Denmark vaulted into the league lead by downing previously unbeaten Reedsville last week. Leon Rasmussen has been the sparkplug of the Denmark attack, with Dick Hanson and Jim Schleis figuring strongly in the Vikings' string of wins. Rasmussen had 23 points against Reedsville.

Winneconne rolled to a 79-32 win over Shiocton last week and the Wolves are hoping to carry the momentum through to Friday night. Tom Nickel, 6-5 center, is leading the point parade for the Wolves.

Hilbert and Reedsville cannot afford to let down against the second division clubs. Freedom has won a pair of games with its young team and could prove bothersome for Reedsville. Glen Bowers, of the Irish, had 30 points last week.

Hortonville will be favored to hold its first division berth against winless Bear Creek and Omro will be out to reach a 3-3 league mark at Shiocton's expense. The Chiefs have won only one of five games so far.

Mishaps Show Training Need

Many Accidents In Hunting Caused By Youngsters

BY ALBERT L. VANDER-BLOEMEN
Conservation Warden

A close look at the hunting accidents of the past seasons, and especially the deer season, show that a large percentage of them were caused by relatively young hunters. In most cases these youngsters were violating primary rules of gun safety.

While there was a considerable increase in hunting accidents both fatal and non-fatal, there was a decrease in such causes as swinging on game, a man mistaken for a deer, etc. This is gratifying, and we believe it indicates that the average hunter was a little more careful and had a better knowledge of what he was shooting at before he squeezed the trigger.

We believe these facts indicate quite vividly the need for gun safety training for all youngsters before they start hunting. We have strongly urged this for many years.

While Wisconsin law does not require such training before a hunting license can be obtained, such training is available in most localities.

If your youngster received a new gun for Christmas (or if he is just starting to hunt), we urge you to arrange for him to get professional training before he is allowed to use his gun.

Beaver, Offer Seasons to Open

MADISON — February 1 or February 15, depending on the locality, will mark the opening of the 1961 beaver and other seasons in Wisconsin.

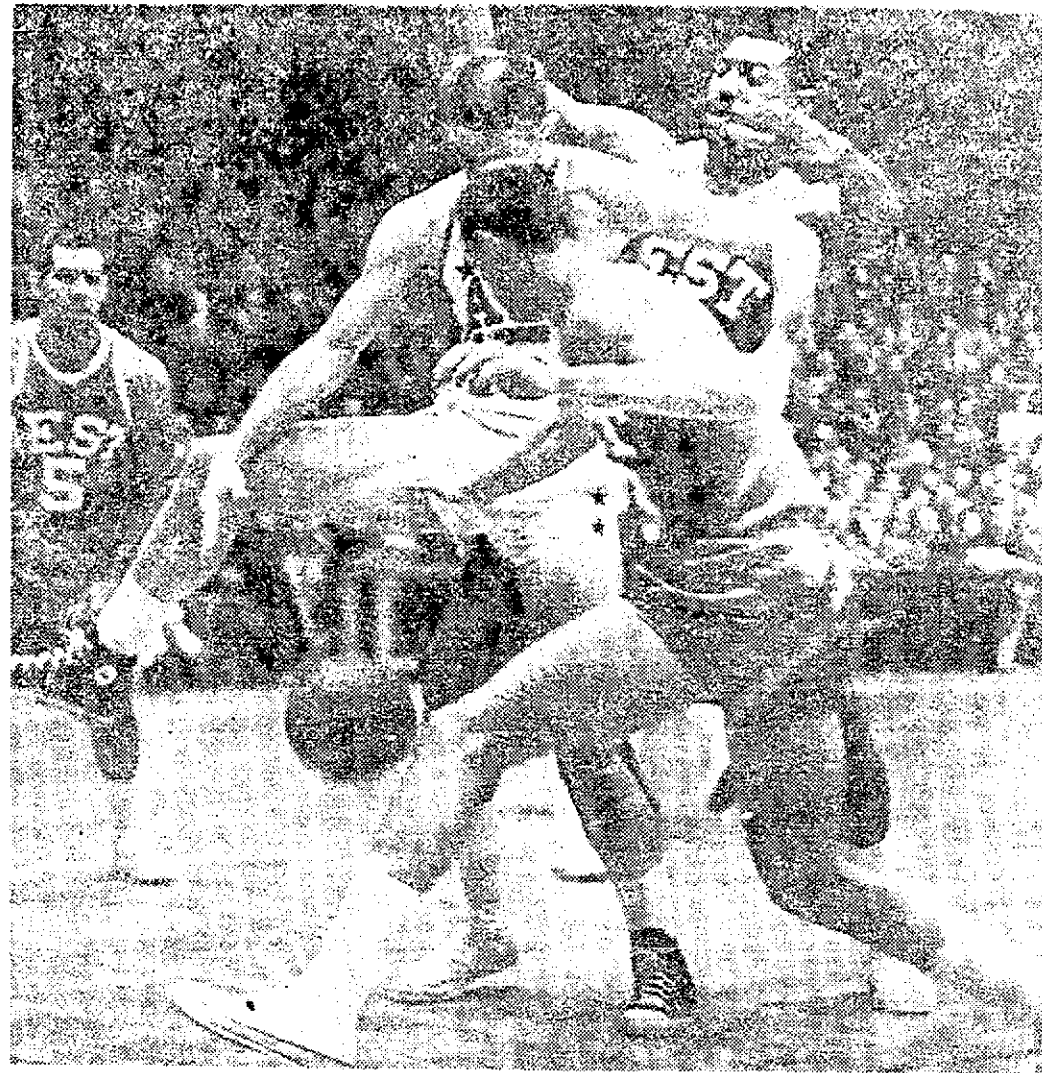

Season bag limit on otter is two and the statewide closing date is March 15. In most instances, season limits on beaver are 35 and the closing date is March 31. In a broad central area of the state, however, beaver trapping will close on March 15 with a bag limit of 20.

Several counties on the eastern and western borders of Wisconsin will be closed completely. On a series of designated trout streams, trapping will extend through April 30.

For exact boundary lines on the various seasons, sportsmen should consult the map issued by the Conservation Department.

NBA All-Stars Nearly Didn't Take Floor Over Pension Dispute

After Differences Were Settled, East Beat West, 111-107

BOSTON (AP)—It was advertised as the night of the 14th annual National Basketball Association All-Star game.

But it may have been the night the NBA came painfully close to collapsing.

Game time Tuesday night was 9 p.m., EST. Television cameras for a national audience were ready. A full house was settling back at Boston Garden, waiting for the 20 best players in the league to begin action for the East and West teams. The spotlights were about to go on. There was only one flaw. The players had decided they were going to walk out—leaving the cameras, the audience, the fans and the spotlights—if the league didn't call a meeting of the Board of Governors.

Pension Plan
They wanted a pension plan. And, apparently, they wanted it, or at least solid assurance of it, right then and there.

"The players told me at 8:55, five minutes before game-time, that they would go through with the game," said J. Walter Kennedy, league president.

Until that moment, Kennedy said, the game was in doubt. The East squad, led by Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson and Boston's Sam Jones, went on to win 111-107 and register its ninth victory in 14 games.

But the game seemed anticlimactical after what had been taking place in a dressing room 50 feet from the court.

Kennedy told newsmen at the hastily-called conference just out of sight of the fans—and just as the game got underway—that he had just met with All-Star Tom Heinsohn of Boston, President of the NBA Players Association, earlier Tuesday and discussed the proposed pension plan.

Owners Present
He assured Heinsohn, he said, that the plan would be acted on either Feb. 18-19, at the NBA Board of Governors meeting, or on May 1, when all the club owners would be present at the league's annual meeting.

He said he thought the matter had been taken care of. But at 6 p.m. Heinsohn and Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks came to his hotel room and demanded an immediate Board of Governors meeting.

This was impossible, Kennedy told them. But he agreed to contact all the owners who were in Boston for the game and get assurances from them that they would act on the pension plan either next month or May 1.

The NBA president then met with the 20 All-Star players in a dressing room at 8:25 and assured them that the plan will be thoroughly considered.

That was that and the game—a good one—went on after a 10-minute delay. The East built up an 18-point lead in the third period, then had to hang on to the West, led by Jerry West of Los Angeles, Wilt Chamberlain of San Francisco and Pettit, rallied and closed the margin to four points on three occasions.

Robertson was the game's high scorer and Most Valuable Player with 26 points, 14 rebounds and eight assists. Wilt and Pettit each had 19 points.

Pete Vander Velden's 18 points paced St. Joseph to its fourth straight victory as it defeated EUB, 72-64, last week. St. Bernadette continued one game behind with a 50-39 triumph over Zion. First Methodist defeated First English, 56-52.

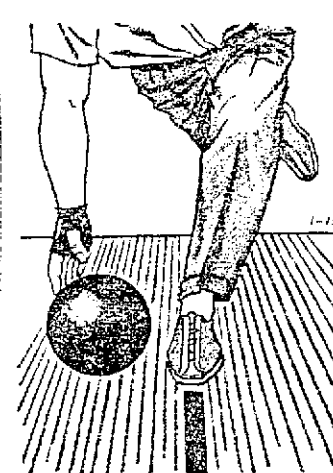

Bill Feind fired in 25 points and Dave Krueger added 20 for EUB. Bob Ascher led St. Bernadette with 15 points, and Terry Gunderson had a 14-point output for First English.

Bowling Tips

Foot Slides Straight

Many balls that miss their mark are caused by action of the left foot at the release. As is illustrated, the foot should be sliding directly at the foul line, or at a 90-degree angle to it. The usual error is to let the heel turn to the left, so that at the finish the foot is pointing to the right side of the lane.

AFL to Hold Meeting in San Diego

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Football League will consider proposals to raise its player limit from 33 and to change its draft regulations at a three-day meeting in San Diego, Calif., prior to the East-West All-Star game Sunday.

Commissioner Joe Foss said today the meetings will start Thursday morning so all business can be completed before the game.

The draft proposal would permit the drafting of red-shirt players before the 14th round. Red shirts are players who have not used up their college eligibility although they become eligible for the pro draft in the year their original college classes are graduated.

Another proposal would change the percentage system in compiling league standings.

Among the reports to be received are one on the cooperative scouting system employed by Denver, Houston and New York and one on television programming by Chet Simmons, general manager of Sports Programs, Inc.

11 points to pace Retson's, and Gary Gile had 11 for Bruch. George Walter downed Police, 42-13, and Berggren's topped Pond's, 37-35, in other American Division tussles. Ed Olson had 13 points for Berggren's, Mike Crowe hit 11 for Pond's and Keith Gibson had 12 for George Walter.

Rick Miller hit 19 markers for Bruch and John's, and Mal McIntyre added 16. UCT rolled over VFW, 69-32 in the National Division.

Bruce Gunderson had 16 points in pacing UCT and Tom Jooss and Bruce Lilje shared 47-38 in the American Division, runnerup honors with 15 each. "Happy" Kindem connected for Mike Sass paced VFW with 14.

The Anti-Smoking Campaign in Europe

There has been a serious campaign waged in Western Europe during the last year to discourage cigarette smoking and the results, or lack of them, are of interest in view of the discussion in this country over what to do about the advisory committee's report.

The European campaign according to The Wall Street Journal, ran head-on into two troublesome facts. Smokers don't want to quit and the governments' treasury officials worry about the revenues from cigarette taxes.

Unit sales of cigarettes in Europe continued to climb in 1963 despite some bans on advertising, extensive poster campaigns warning of lung cancer and clinics in public schools.

In England, smokers reduced their consumption by 12 per cent right after the Royal College of Surgeons condemned smoking in 1962, but currently they are buying as many packs as before the report was issued.

It may well be that anti-smoking campaigns will take years to produce results, particularly where the major target is the youth. But observers also believe that European countries have not gone all-out in their campaigns because government treasury officials were able to influence policy. The British government, for instance, has ignored most of the stronger measures recommended in the Royal College report, including prohibition of smoking in public places and an increase in the cigarette tax. Britain raises about 13 per cent of total government income through tobacco taxes.

Because of the high taxes, cigarette prices in Europe generally are two to three times higher than in the United States. And yet most Europeans continue puffing away.

The Work of the Coroner

The public may occasionally wonder why the county coroner investigates the cause of death in certain cases and what good is such determination after the victim is gone.

The annual report of Coroner Bernard Kemps cites three interesting cases which shed light on this point. In one, suspicion of carelessness or worse was removed from an innocent party; in another an "accidental" death was found to be no accident at all and the guilty party brought to justice; and in a third, the post mortem examination uncovered a case of a highly communicable disease, enabling health authorities to take proper steps to prevent its spread.

As Kemps states in the report: "The cases typify the three principal functions of the coroner, who is charged under the law with determining the cause of death, but who also has a further obligation to protect the innocent, bring justice to the guilty, and protect the living."

There were also some interesting statistics in the annual report in regard to traffic fatalities in Outagamie County in 1963, totaling 24. Of these only three occurred in the urban areas of the county, 21 being on rural roads or highways. And of the 11 drivers killed during the year, blood tests revealed that 64 per cent had been drinking.

Coroner Kemps has a facility for interpreting the results of his work. When a coroner performs in this manner his office in county government becomes a meaningful one.

Honest Statistics

The so-called "Committee of 25" which has been commissioned by the legislature to make a critical but constructive examination of the problem of exploding state and local government service expenditures has published a preliminary report which is encouraging proof of its intelligent vigilance.

In the section devoted to the financing of education, the committee as a first order of business discloses that it is aware of the more notorious of the statistical booby traps the institutional interests in this field have sometimes employed upon the unwary.

For example, the statement that Wisconsin is 30th in the country in per capita expenditures for public schools has become virtually a bromide. Yet in a state which has up to a third—and perhaps more—of its school age population in non-public schools, it is a useless if not a deceptive measure. Adjusted to take into account non-public school enrollment, Wisconsin ranks 14th in current expenditures for education as a per cent of personal income, which is a fair test of the financial effort of the states on a comparative basis.

That lobbying forces can manipulate so-called "official" statistics to their own advantage is known by most politicians who have passed the apprentice stage.

But it is not so generally known by the general public, including the parents of school children who observe the public discussions about the quality of the schools of Wisconsin and the degree of financial effort expended upon them. Sometimes, indeed, such juggling of comparisons is committed by schoolmen who risk their dignity and credibility in the exercise.

To a considerable degree, the concern about Wisconsin expenditure trends which brought about the establishment of this fiscal study commission is related to the cost of public education. The subcommittee assigned to that phase of the public financing problem has refrained from conclusions thus far. It has proceeded carefully. Altogether its performance has been encouraging. When it reports its recommendations, they will achieve public respect and acceptance because the group has done its preparatory work in such hardheaded fashion.

Is the Soviet Economy in Trouble?

The Central Intelligence Agency has issued an unprecedented report on the economy of the Soviet Union. The report indicates a much slower rate of economic growth in Russia than has been estimated by Western scholars and of course a much more serious situation today than any Communists have suggested.

The CIA made the report public apparently because the Johnson Administration wants to discourage our allies from making large scale export credits available to the Soviet Union. The only way the Russian economy can regain health, goes the argument, is for it to get such credits. Thus the free nations ought to restrict the greater portion of their sales to Communist nations to cash deals.

The argument is a good one. Coexistence and an avoidance of war should mean more reliance of the Communist world upon the free nations. But it should not mean that we should bail out the Communists from the economic troubles which their system has created. The present condition of the Russian economy should slow down some of the enthusiasm among such new leaders as Nikursh and Sukarno for the Marxist system. Unfortunately the lure of absolute power counters any clear-headed thoughts the leaders of such nations as Ghana, Cuba and Indonesia might conceivably have.

The CIA report indicates that the Soviet rate of growth of its gross national product has dropped from 6 per cent or 7 per cent in the last decade to only 2.5 per cent in 1962 and 1963. Some specialists in this country have expressed both surprise and doubt at the figures. They concede that the Russian grain failures certainly did lower the rate but they do not think it could be as low as 2.5 per cent.

The doubt expressed of the accuracy of the CIA report will handicap its use in persuading European nations and Japan not to give Russia export credits. Some of the smaller nations swinging or committed to communism will believe only that the CIA is doing the work of the United States and its word cannot be accepted.

But unless the Russians are able to disprove the report of economic malaise, their system has received another blow. Communism not only erases man's liberty, it doesn't even provide the material benefits it stresses so much.

Monster Iron-Clad Described

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Monitor for Jan. 11, 1864.

The Minotaur, which was launched a few weeks ago in England, is a monster iron-clad beside which even the celebrated Warrior shrinks into diminished proportions.

Her capacity is 6,812 tons, which would make her nearly three times as big as the North Carolina, 74-gun ship which has lain so long at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

The Minotaur differs in some important respects from the Warrior and other British iron-clads. She is sheathed from bow to stern with iron plates 5 1/2 inches in thickness. The Warrior is armored only in the midship section and that with iron an inch thinner.

The Minotaur is 30 feet longer than the Warrior. Her armor will weigh 1,000 tons; her engines are to work to 1350 horse-power; she is expected to steam 11 miles an hour. Her armor is fastened to nine inches of Tenasserim teak. The ship is 400 feet long, 60 feet wide and draws 25 1/2 feet—a very moderate draft for so huge a vessel.

The Minotaur is to have two sisters, now on the stocks, the Agincourt and the Northumberland.

Narrow, Local Approach Used By Republicans in Primaries

BY MAX FREEDMAN

Last week we were given a searing example of the unfair conditions under which a Presidential race must be conducted. President Johnson and Senator Goldwater provided the instructive contrast.

The whole country, indeed a large part of the world, watched or heard President Johnson as he submitted his program to Congress. That same day Senator Goldwater huddled in an overcrowded house in New Hampshire with some zealous supporters and rasped out his criticisms of the new administration. Is it any wonder that the Senator sounded querulous and bitter while the President handled the great themes with the authority of a national leader? The platform sometimes confers stature on the speaker and adds a note of resonant eloquence to his voice. There can be no greater contrast than between an address to Congress and an appeal for votes in a primary.

Governor Rockefeller has also felt the cruel pressure of local circumstance. In his first major speech in New Hampshire he supported the full use of the naval facilities at Portsmouth. Yet he is also the opponent of waste and inefficiency in government. He knows perfectly well that he cannot be the advocate of economy while being the defender of every local installation. He resolved the conflict between logic and politics by behaving with political expediency.

Buss scored top 587, right behind him from the Knights of Columbus Major League at the Elks lanes was Dr. Ray Stingle with 585. The third ranking score that night in Appleton was Harold Luperl, pacing the Builders League at Hahn's with his 580.

NEW POLITICAL LAW?

Thus there seems to be a political law which is driving the Republican candidates to narrow and lower their appeal, at the very time that President Johnson is improving his position as a national figure.

But the Republicans deceive themselves if they think they must sink to the rather squalid level of a primary contest. Another and better course awaits them. They can raise the importance of the primary until it becomes a forum for the discussion and settlement of supreme issues.

This is no mirage. It has already been done. Senator John F. Kennedy did it in 1960. For a time Wisconsin and West Virginia were as important as Washington in the national debate. It is true of course that Mr. Kennedy discussed farm policy in Wisconsin and unemployment in West Virginia. But he never discussed these problems as if they were mere local issues. He always placed them in the context of national policy.

Even more important, Mr. Kennedy made the voters in the primary aware of the world problems that awaited an American decision. Among the million letters of sympathy to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy are countless messages which recall the gallant and invincible figure of Mr. Kennedy, bringing a touch of splendor even to the endless miseries of a primary race. The great campaigner is remembered with gratitude because he knew how to make a strenuous political battle an experiment in responsible citizenship.

Samaritan Law Passed By Delaware

From Exchange

Delaware's General Assembly has approved a law to protect doctors who came to the aid of accident victims from being sued for malpractice.

With these malpractice suits reportedly on the increase doctors have been reluctant to be "good samaritans." Example: A doctor is riding along a highway when he sees an accident. His code, his training tells him to stop and render what assistance he can. He does. The victim does not recover. The doctor is sued. He faces financial ruin, or at least a loss of professional prestige. Naturally, he hesitates.

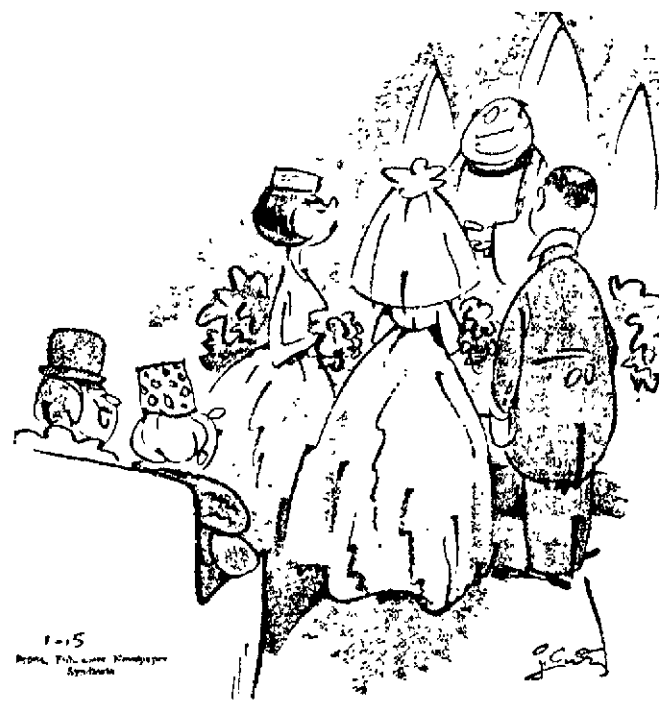

However, if he is protected from unscrupulous persons who would not hesitate to take advantage of his willingness to serve mankind, he can plunge in and possibly save a life.

Other states that do not have such a law might well follow Delaware's action.

Johnson Couldn't Buck State Democratic Party By Ignoring Rabinovitz

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — In the selection of David Rabinovitz for the western Wisconsin federal district judgeship after a year of wrangling that will become a footnote to the history of the times, President Johnson has shown that he has no desire to rock the boat of Democratic party politics at this sensitive stage of his presidential career.

Nothing could be clearer than the division of opinion in the Wisconsin Democratic party as a whole about the qualifications of the Sheboygan lawyer, or the lack thereof. But the party organization, on the record, wanted him. He was a deserving applicant on the basis of his own performance in the party during a long span of years. The United States senators, both Democrats, endorsed him for the record. Under the circumstances a regular Democrat probably had no other choice, and the new president has apparently concluded that this would not be a propitious time to defy the party on what from the Washington perspective must be a comparatively trivial item of political business.

THE CHOICE

To have done anything else would have meant offense to the chosen Democratic representatives of the state in the Congress and to the state Democratic party organization upon which he must depend for some of the votes he wants for renomination, and much of the work he wants to carry the state in the fall.

It would have meant repudiation of the Democratic governor, whose credentials as a leader are certified by the fact that he holds his office in this traditionally Republican state, not to mention the new Democratic state chairman whose loyalty and energies will count in what will probably be a hard campaign.

But most of all, to reject Rabinovitz, the choice of his predecessor, would have been the equivalent of a signal to party loyalists that good party service doesn't count in the distribution of patronage and that the scorn of the opposition can influence the new national administration in its fledgling period.

There are many fascinating sidelights to the long and almost wildly bitter fight about the judicial selection, none of which will do much benefit to the party's image in the minds of independents and perhaps some ideological Democrats. But here again the president probably concluded that it was better to use whatever means available to end the issue, than to capitulate to the opposition and disappoint the orthodox loyalists who equate patronage eligibility with party contributions.

Not the least of the intriguing elements of the story was the willingness of Rabinovitz to endure the ordeal which resulted from his demand for a reward. Undoubtedly more sensitive men would have given up long since.

PATRONAGE VALUE?

The uninitiated citizen on the sidelines may wonder whether the value of job patronage to a party, however it is measured, is great enough to be worth the year-long catervauling and public controversy that the single judgeship appointment has occasioned.

The answer is that patronage is valuable and it will survive as long as elective government survives although it must be obvious that the Democrats didn't anticipate the depth of their difficulties in this case. The Rabinovitz type in politics is very nearly indispensable. In the emotional memories of Mr. Kennedy there was a tendency to overlook the mechanical difficulties he faced when he put his candidacy on the line in the Wisconsin primary in 1960. There were only a handful of politicians of any stature whatever willing to stand with him. Rabinovitz was one of them, and one of the most energetic and most useful and most devoted. When he called for his reward, there was no conceivable way in which he could be denied, in the system of practical politics the Kennedy's exemplified so brilliantly.

Strictly Personal

Chain-Smoker? Then Where Are the Chains?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I think it was James Thurber who once recalled an image he had, as a boy, of his father bound to the chair of his office desk, straining at the bonds, and unable to free himself from the knots until late.

For when his father did not show up for dinner some nights, his mother told young Thurber that "Daddy is tied up at the office." To a vividly fanciful mind such as his, Daddy was tied with heavy rope.

This recollection of Thurber's occurred to me the other evening, when my 6-year-old daughter asked to see my "chains." I thought she meant for the tires on my car, and told her I have none.

"But you must have," she insisted. "I heard Mother tell someone you were a chain-smoker, and I've only seen you smoke cigarets. Where do you keep the chains?"

We adults have very little notion of how the perverted minds of children work overtime to construe (and often misconstrue) what they hear. Commonplace idioms and stale metaphors we take for granted and scarcely think about as we say them are sometimes taken as literal truths by children — who may worry secretly for years about their true meaning and import.

We forget that all children are natural worriers, for growing up is a fearful, as well as a joyous, process. The world is large, strange, changing, filled with seemingly capricious commandments and prohibitions, and permeated with a language that the child regards, in part, as mysterious and evasive.

When President Kennedy was shot, a little girl we know asked her mother who would take his place. She was told that the vice president had already assumed the office. "That's nice," said the little girl. "I think every child should have a vice-daddy in case she loses her own."

Through the oblique medium of the President's death, she was able to express her meaning of disaster and tragedy—a father was taken away. This is a fear (or sometimes a wish, or both together) that all children have, but are not able to convey verbally. When parents quarrel, and say thoughtlessly angry things to one another, the children quite often take such remarks literally, and brood about their fulfillment.

What is said in front of a child may have psychic repercussions the parents are wholly unaware of, for the child has an immense capacity for distorting reality, for treating the metaphor as real, for taking the word for the deed. Repressing memory of pain, we forget how the world can seem a labyrinth of arcane dangers to the mind of a child.

Water Having Strong Mineral Content Safe

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. housewives. The issue is that Dear Dr. Molner: Our well unless a woman reaches a cli-

Dr. Molner

MRS. E. C. Are you trying to kid me, or each other? Climax has nothing to do with pregnancy. What about artificial insemination?

Epilepsy Form Dear Dr. Molner: This may be unimportant to you but it is of grave concern to me. Please explain the term, idiopathic grand mal epilepsy, in words understandable to a layman.

T. A.

MRS. C. J. If it's important to you, it is to me. Let's go at this backward. Epilepsy is a "convulsant disorder." That is, the parts of the brain which control muscular activity are affected. Involuntarily you find the muscles going into an abrupt tightening or paralysis or "convulsion."

There are two principal forms of this, the "grand mal," or severe convulsion which may last for several minutes. The patient will lose consciousness, may thrash about, bite his tongue. The other common form is the "petit mal," which may occur very frequently in some cases, sometimes many times a day. But the attacks are mild and very brief. Often they amount to no more than a momentary pause between words or in the middle of a word, after which the person goes right on talking, as though nothing had happened.

My opinion is that your "helpful" friends and neighbors ought to mind their own business, and learn the facts before they try to worry you with such non-sense. Chances are they are jealous.

There are no vitamins in water, whether hard or soft. There are minerals in hard water. That's what makes the water "hard." But they are not in a form which can be used by the body.

Softening, by various processes, involves substituting sodium for the calcium and magnesium in the hard water.

The one thing to watch out for, with softened water, is this: People on a low-salt (low sodium) diet should avoid softened water because of the sodium it contains. It is not, however, harmful to the rest of us.

Some individuals prefer the taste of hard water, and have a separate faucet leading directly from the water main, instead of going through the softener.

It's purely a matter of taste, however, so drink whichever you prefer.

Heated Argument Dear Doctor: Please settle a heated argument among four Attention all women: For the pamphlet, "The Pre-Menstrual Blues," write to Dr. Molner in a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling. This pamphlet may help you!

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Reader's questions are incorporated in this column whenever possible.

Romney Backers Plan Slate in State Primary

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A Wisconsin group supporting Gov. George Romney of Michigan for the Republican presidential nomination will enter a slate of candidates in the April 7 primary although Romney says he won't permit his name to be used on the ballot.

Carl A. Kielisch of Grafton, chairman of the Wisconsin Romney Committee, said Tuesday the plans would not be affected by merger of two Romney organizations in Michigan. Kielisch added that the National Romney for President movement had decided to consolidate with the Romney Volunteers, a group which backed Romney in his bid for the governorship. Kielisch said his group has ties with both organizations, but the Wisconsin unit is autonomous and would not be affected by decisions of the combined Michigan group.

The Wisconsin unit plans to file a slate of delegate candidates on March 6, despite the fact that Romney has refused to allow use of his name on the ballot. The group will use the name "Common Sense Approach to Government."

Body of Second Flier Found on Icy Mountain

One of Five Crewmen Still Missing in Jet Bomber Crash

BY JOHN A. WOODFIELD
CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—The body of a second flier from an Air Force jet bomber which crashed near here Monday was found on an ice-capped mountain today. Only one of the five crewmen is still unaccounted for.

Two crew members had been found alive earlier and another had perished on the blizzard-swept slope near the scene of the wreckage.

The second body recovered was identified as Maj. Robert L. Payne, 41, of Tulsa, Okla., navigator of the B-52 carrying two nuclear weapons. Both weapons, described as harmless in their present state because they were not primed, were found in the wreckage.

Payne's body was located about six miles from the plane crash, 20 miles west of Cumberland.

Found dead earlier in the wreckage was Maj. Robert L. Townley, 42, of Gadsden, Ala., the bombardier.

Still missing and the object of an intense air and ground search was T. Sgt. Melvin Wooten, 27, Tohatchi, N.M., the tail gunner.

The other crewmen, Maj. Thomas W. McCormick of Yawkey, W. Va., and Capt. Parker C. Peedin, 29, of Smithfield, N.C., survived parachute jumps in near-blizzard weather. McCormick made it to a nearby farmhouse and Peedin was Turn to Page 3, Col. 1

Ex-Minister to be Hanged

Anti-Arab Terrorism Builds Up in Zanzibar

BY DENNIS NEEDL

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP) — A wave of anti-Arab terrorism may be building up on Zanzibar, where African nationalists overthrew the Arab government last weekend.

The military leader of the revolt, John Okello, announced via Zanzibar Radio that the Minister of Finance and development in the old government, Juma Alex Juma - Aburway, would be hanged publicly today.

Okello said two other prominent Arabs, former Asst. Minister Rashid Hamadi Othman and Orani Hamed of Pemba Island, a dependency of Zanzibar, would also be hanged. He set no date.

Okello said previously that another Arab, Elok Salim, would be doused with gasoline and burned and that Hilal Kibanga, a wealthy Arab merchant, had been ordered to kill his sons and daughters and then kill himself.

Zanzibar reports indicated Okello is humiliating once-proud Arabs who fought the rebels in Sunday's revolt that overthrew Sultan Seyyid Jamshid bin Abdullah's regime.

The Arabs are to kneel or lie face down in the streets.

East Faces Severe Cold While Digging Out of Heavy Snow

Over 140 Deaths Attributed To Worst Storm of Winter

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bitter cold added woe to misery today as the eastern half of the nation continued to dig out of its worst snowstorm of the winter.

Thousands of motorists and others were stranded and more than 140 deaths were blamed on the blizzard-like onslaught.

New York City sanitation men, 8,000 strong, were bolstered by 3,000 extras hired at $2 an hour to shovel snow from streets, the city's biggest accumulation in three years.

Manhattan's Great White Way was just that.

In the South Florida citrus growers readied heaters for the lowest temperatures — 23 in Jacksonville and 42 in Miami.

Tries to Prove Lee Oswald Not Assassin

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A New York lawyer has agreed to represent Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy, and will try to prove him innocent, his mother said Tuesday.

The mother, Mrs. Marguerite Oswald, told reporters that attorney Mark Lane would appear for her dead son before the special presidential commission investigating the assassination.

Lane several weeks ago submitted a lengthy brief to the commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren stating that Oswald should be defended.

Thinks Son Innocent

Mrs. Oswald contends her son is innocent or acted with others if guilty. Evidence released by government agencies has indicated Oswald acted alone.

Oswald, 24, was charged with the Nov. 22 assassination of Kennedy, the fatal shooting of a Dallas policeman, J.D. Tippit and the attempted murder of Texas Gov. John B. Connally, who was riding in a car with Kennedy.

Oswald was shot in the Dallas City Hall as officers prepared to transfer him to the county jail Jack Ruby, Dallas night club operator, is charged with the slaying which occurred but it is feared the tally may reach 100.

Johnson Helps End Deadlock In Controversy

Delivers Final Instructions to U. S. Negotiator

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration was reportedly pleased today with the agreement for ending the crisis in U.S.-Panamanian relations.

President Johnson himself worked on final instructions to the U.S. negotiator in Panama, diplomat Edwin M. Martin.

He said Panama then would during the midnight hours after a White House dinner for President Antonio Segni of Italy.

Administration officials said the essence of the agreement, so far as the United States is concerned, is that the United States will discuss with Panama any issue Panama wants to raise. That clearly includes demands for revision of the treaty by which the United States exercises absolute control of the Panama Canal Zone.

Not Bound to Revision
The United States is not committed, however, to revise the treaty. What it may eventually do in this respect will depend on how the discussions go.

Johnson was notified late Tuesday that as a result of negotiations in Panama the prospect of an agreement was growing.

The break in the crisis came with unexpected speed. Late Tuesday, some of the best-informed officials here expected that the government of Panama had taken the position that relations could be resumed only when the United States had agreed to revision of the treaty. Chari was making demands that the United States virtually abandon the canal but diplomats here understood his real position was that Panama should get a substantial increase in the annual January on record: Washington, payment of $1,930,000 and a D.C. 9 inches, heaviest in more than five years.

Among thousands marooned by the storm were hundreds of motorists in Indiana, Illinois and on New York City's Belt Parkway. Buses rescued the latter group. The others began to move as conditions eased.

Youngstown, Ohio, got 16 inches of snow, heaviest in six years; Albany, N.Y., 15 inches, the heaviest 24-hour fall for any January on record; Washington, D.C., 9 inches, heaviest in more than five years.

Ties Will be Resumed at Early Date

BY THEODORE A. EDIGER

PANAMA (AP)—The United States and Panama agreed today to re-establish diplomatic relations "as quickly as possible" and to open discussions 30 days after resumption of relations on all issues between the two countries.

The agreement did not specifically mention the treaty giving the United States control of the Panama Canal Zone, which Panama wants revised. But its language made clear this would be among the issues to be discussed.

Panamanian President Roberto Chari's press officer, Fabian Velarde, said his government would wait awhile, perhaps a week, "to let things cool off" before resuming relations with the United States.

Costa Rica Intermediary
He said Panama then would ask a third government to advise Washington of the desire to restore relations, which Chari broke off at the height of the crisis last weekend. The intermediary is expected to be Costa Rica, which was named to handle Panama's affairs in Washington during the break.

The agreement was reached by Edwin M. Martin, President Johnson's special envoy, and Panamanian Foreign Minister Galileo Solis, meeting with the peace committee of the Organization of American States.

Martin, Solis and the OAS group had been negotiating since Sunday night.

A communique issued by the OAS committee said Panama and the United States "agreed to begin formal discussions which will be initiated 30 days after diplomatic relations are re-established by means of representatives who will have sufficient powers to discuss without limitations all existing matters of any nature which may affect the relations between the United States and Panama."

The Chari treaty is the chief "existing matter" in Washington.

Tell of New London School Deficiencies

State Inspectors Report on Conditions, Find Many Favorable

NEW LONDON — Deficiencies of the New London School system were explained to members of the board of education by two members of the State Department of Public Instruction at a special meeting Monday night.

Instruction department representatives Donald Anderson and Charles Wileman, who inspected district schools Nov. 19, commended the school staff and pointed out many favorable conditions in the schools.

Not Favorable
It was recommended the foreign language be expanded to start in the sixth grade and offer a foreign language to all of the students. Now German and one year of Latin are offered on the high school level. The entire program should be tied together and language labs used, Anderson said.

Conditions in both of two church basements used for kindergarten classes are not favorable, Anderson said, but with a choice of using the church basements or not having kindergartens at all, he said this was the best solution. His main complaints were lighting and the unfavorable atmosphere of classes in a basement.

Wileman, high school supervisor of the state department, frowned on the open campus system used here.

For above-average students who know how to set their own schedule, the program is fine, but many average or below-average students are not getting the benefits of a regulated study period, he said. He also objected to some of the lighting conditions in the auditorium and gymnasium, both of which are used for study areas in the open campus system.

Add Geography
Another recommendation in the academic program was the adding of geography at the ninth grade level and American history for two consecutive years, possibly grades 10 and 11. New adjustments cannot be made entirely in one year, both men said. They must take into consideration bus transportation, the length of the school day and school year. A school year of 180 days was recommended. Now the school year is 175 days but Supt. Lloyd Qualley said in the new school calendar the year has been extended to 181 days for 1964-65.

Industrial arts and home economics on a junior high level were also recommended by the two men. With a basic course in junior high, industrial arts students would eliminate the need for a vocational course in high school. The same pertains to home economics, Anderson said.

In the process of bringing a number of separate school districts together in district reorganization, much effort must be expended in coordination of a functional kindergarten through grade 12 school curriculum, Wileman said.

There is no one best way of doing things in education, he said. The program must fit the community and local situations.

Outagamie Okays Deputy Wardens

County Supervisors Vote 27-26 for $500 Fund Transfer

Supervisors on the Outagamie County Board did a turnaround Tuesday and decided the county should have deputy conservation wardens.

By a vote of 27 to 26, the board passed a motion by Supv. Eugene Kloes (Appleton 4th) which transfers $500 from the county's contingency to a deputy game warden fund.

At last November's board session the board voted to raise the bounty for killing foxes to $5 and to add $500 to the county's bounty account by deleting $500 from the budget for deputy conservation warden's salaries.

Albert Vander Bloomen, Hortonville, state conservation warden for the Outagamie County area, appeared before the board today and objected to last November's actions.

'Essential to Enforcement'
Vander Bloomen described all the activities of the deputy county wardens and called them "essential to game law enforcement in Outagamie County." He said that arrests made by the county wardens last year provided well over $500 to the county in fines and court costs.

Vander Bloomen also pointed out that about 190 deer were killed by autos in the county last year. He explained that by selling good meat from the deer carcasses salvaged by the wardens, an additional $1,000 was netted.

He told the board he worked an average of 300 hours per month last year, took only two or three days off and no vacation. In addition, Vander Bloomen said, he is three months and $450 "in the red" on expense money.

He compared the warden situation with the police situation. He said counties don't want the state police to take over county police duties, yet Outagamie County wants the state to come in and take over county's conservation law enforcement duties.

Supv. Erwin Conradt (Town of Bovina), author of last November's measure which abolished the four deputy warden positions, said "when you figure that the state takes $150,000 a year out of the county in licenses, what we get back is peanuts."

Conradt also objected to the state buying land in the Town of Bovina for Wolf River public access projects and not re-

Vote Pay Hikes to Courthouse Help

'19 Outagamie Workers to Get 'Cost of Living' Salary Raises

"Cost of living" salary increases were granted to 19 courthouse employees Tuesday by the Outagamie County Board.

The resolution calling for wage boosts came from the county personnel (appeals) committee. It stated the group flatly denied an across-the-board 10 per cent salary increase asked for by the Courthouse Employees Association.

Instead, the committee recommended that since the cost of living has increased 7 per cent since 1958, salaries should have been increased by at least that much.

All employees would get raises to bring their increases up to the 7 per cent mark, based on 1958 salaries. Those whose increases total more or who already have reached that mark, will get none.

Supv. Glenn Pelton (Appleton 12th), personnel committee chairman, said the raises would cost the county $1,000 for the year. He proposed that $1,000 be transferred from the contingency fund to provide for the increases which range between $1 and $7 a month.

No action had been taken on the proposal when the board adjourned at noon.

At the November board session, supervisors granted courthouse employees a flat 3 per cent wage increase and promised another 4 per cent in one year for a 7 per cent total.

After the board session, Courtney Schwartz, chairman of the benefits committee of the Courthouse Employees Association, indicated the group was satisfied with Tuesday's action.

He said the benefits committee would meet within a few days to discuss the latest county board plan.

If the employees aren't satisfied, the next step would be the National Labor Relations Board, Schwartz said.

New London Plans Teacher Training

College Students Will Work in School System 8 to 10 Weeks Under Educators With Experience

NEW LONDON — The board of education Tuesday night approved a cadet teacher program to start next year.

Seniors and some juniors from teachers colleges will enter the school system for a period of eight to 10 weeks to work with experienced teachers. Near the end of the period they will take an active part in teaching. The number of cadets will be limited by the amount of room available, Supt. Lloyd Qualley said.

The program will help obtain new teachers, he said. Mrs. Thomas McCormick, New London, a senior music major from Oshkosh State college is the only cadet teacher, serving in the school music department.

Qualley told the board Sugar Bush School, now under construction, is progressing according to schedule and will be completed in March. No children will be moved until the school is completed.

Rent Gym
A proposal to rent the Lutheran School gymnasium for junior high basketball practice was presented to the board. It was approved and will be sent to the Lutheran School Board for its approval.

The board agreed to pay a $50 per month fee to use the gym. The gym was used by the junior high during November and December, but there was no rental agreement. The fee will be paid for both months.

The board was told a Mid-Eastern Conference music festival in New London was planned for March 7 and April 18. Qualley was authorized to contact both Catholic and Lutheran schools in an effort to obtain extra space for the festival. He suggested five rooms be rented from the Lutheran School for March 7 and the Catholic gym for April 18. The conference would pay the rent.

School Calendar
The school calendar for 1964-65 was discussed, but approval was delayed until determining if the extended year would affect teacher contracts. The proposed calendar includes 180 teaching days and 191 school days.

This year there are 175 teaching days. The new calendar starts school Aug. 31, cuts two days from Christmas vacation and two days from Easter vacation.

Continuation of adult vocational classes in woodworking and shorthand for the second semester were approved by the board, but because space will not be available, the welding class will be curtailed for second semester.

Summer Classes
The two classes approved depend on the amount of interest shown by adults now in the classes. Qualley was asked to find out how many adults now attending classes want to enter a more advanced phase of their subjects.

Qualley also asked permission to start planning summer school.

The complaint, signed by an official of Production Credit Association, charged Aebly with disposing of mortgaged cows.

Aebly was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in St. Petersburg, Fla., and held at Tampa, Fla., until last week when county authorities called for him there.

Women Voters Treat Outagamie Supervisors to Lunch

A feminine touch brightened the day for the 53 supervisors who attended the morning Outagamie County Board session Tuesday.

The county board, with an individual hostess for each supervisor, was the guest of the Appleton League of Women Voters at a noon luncheon in the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. hall.

Alvin Fulcer, board chairman, asked the league to support things they feel are needed and proper for government to provide. "Conversely," Fulcer said, "I suggest they vigorously oppose demands on county government which are not the county's responsibility."

Right Direction Fulcer said Outagamie took a step in the right direction of updating local government when it created the post of county business administrator and auditor. He lauded the work of Alvin Woelcher, who was named to the post.

County government is by no means perfect as it is, Fulcer said. It needs study and streamlining, he added.

Fulcer was introduced by Mrs. Jack Welner, league president. She outlined the league's history and projects. Of special interest currently, she said, was the public health program and a new study of handling, enforcement and jurisdiction of juvenile crime.

Anti-Vivisection Booklet Denounced

Ohio Researchers Reply to Appleton Girl's Inquiries

Printed and pictorial anti-vivisection material available at mal quarters some years ago. the Outagamie County Humane Society's animal pound at Macksville has been labeled "false and misrepresentation" by officials of two Ohio research institutions.

The content of the pamphlet, sponsored by the National Anti-Vivisection Society, was called to their attention in letters of inquiry sent them by an Appleton teen-ager.

Vivisection, a controversial subject, is the use of animals for medical experimentation.

After reading the material and looking at pictures contained in the pamphlet, obtained at the dog pound, the young girl wrote to some of the institutions cited to get their side of the story.

Girl Upset

Parents of the girl said she was emotionally upset after reading the anti-vivisection literature. They noted the last page of the pamphlet was an enrollment blank to be used to become a member of society or make a contribution.

The animal pound is operated through funds appropriated by the Appleton Common Council and the Outagamie County Board of Supervisors and private donations.

The question was raised by one of the parents as to whether a municipally supported body should distribute such material.

Fred C. Heinemann, Appleton, president of the County Humane Society, said no one was authorized to distribute any kind of pro or con vivisection material at the dog pound, citing that it was a matter of long-standing policy.

"We have no connection with these various organizations," Heinemann said. However, Heinemann said he would check to make sure no material was being distributed. If it is, it will be stopped, he indicated.

He did explain several organizations send literature to the society on various subjects, and they may be available on a table for anyone who wants to take copies of their own volition.

"We do our best to operate the dog pound and take no stand whatsoever on these subjects," Heinemann emphasized.

Captioned, "Here's The Unvarnished Truth About Vivisection!", the pamphlet contains a two-page layout of pictures, including those of alleged scenes at Ohio State University Veterinary School and Children's Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Monkey Picture

A spokesman for Children's Hospital wrote in part: "I presume you refer to our famous 'monkey cage picture' wherein some deluded person took an unauthorized picture of our animal subjects some years ago. Opponents to sane, constructive medical research have used and circulated this widely.

"Fortunately, through the National Society for Medical Research, steps have been taken to stop such misrepresentation."

It was explained further by Robert D. Southwick, hospital administrator, that the monkeys were humanely used by Dr. Albert Sabin and contributed directly to the development of his live virus polomyelitis vaccine.

Humane Use

He said over 10,000 children were admitted to the hospital this year and received highly scientific care. "Much of this could not have been possible without the humane and indispensable use of laboratory animals," Southwick said.

Also answering the girl's inquiry was Dr. Richard Meiling, dean of the college of medicine at Ohio State University.

"About a year ago, one of the several anti-vivisectionist societies published some pictures of dogs being caged in some obviously sub-standard conditions and alleged that these pictures were taken in our laboratory," Dr. Meiling said.

"These pictures were brought to our attention and upon comparing the pictures with the cages we have in our laboratory, it was immediately obvious that no such caging equipment existed anywhere within the jurisdiction of the college of medicine, and that the allegations of the persons publishing these pictures were false," he added.

He invited inspection of the research facilities and said animals were being cared for in the "most humane and modern ways."

Reds Dare Not Let Castro Fail As Cuba Leader

Flamboyant Man Is Expensive, but Only
Western Foothold

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro has been boss of Cuba five years this month. How is he doing? He is still there and still a pain in the neck to the United States, and a big embarrassment.

This noisy and flamboyant man is probably a pain to the Russians, too, but an expensive pain. The help they're giving him costs a pretty penny but they hardly dare stop, no matter how much they wish they could. They've taken Castro under their wing, he is their first foothold in the Western Hemisphere, and for them to let him flop would be an international embarrassment.

Castro Belittled
It's easy to belittle him. It's done often in this country: the low living standard in Cuba, the poor Cuban sugar crop, the regimentation of the people Cubans still flee Cuba and the exiles hate him.

But there is no evidence all the Cubans do. Whether he could retain power in a truly free election is something else, but his dictatorship prevails and shows no signs of toppling.

Without Soviet help he might not have survived. But this country's desire to ruin him by isolating him economically—shutting him off from trade with American allies or friends—is far from completely successful.

Buy Buses
A British firm just closed a deal to sell him 400 buses for $10 million. Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Spain, where communism was destroyed in the 1930s, opened an airline service to Cuba and reportedly has been considering trading with him.

This situation has its own irony: the United States wants no one to give Castro economic help but is willing to sell wheat to the Soviet Union.

The answer is simple on that one. Castro is a close-up menace and the Soviet Union isn't; getting along with the Soviet Union is important, but getting along with Castro isn't.

Flew to Moscow
Castro flew off to Moscow to see Premier Khrushchev right after the American-Panamanian riots began last week. Whether he went to talk about that or about more Soviet help for Cuba isn't known yet.

Through it all Castro has been a five-year disaster for the United States in more ways than one:

1. So long as he stays, communism has a foot in America's backyard

2. The United States has failed to abolish him, despite all its huffing and puffing. This has left the United States red-faced.

3. The American-backed invasion of Cuba, the only real try at getting rid of him, was a total bust.

4. Castro provided the setting for the greatest shock of the late President John F. Kennedy's administration, when Khrushchev almost got away with slipping his missiles into Cuba.

Red Withdrawal
When Kennedy forced the Russian to withdraw the weapons it required an unforgettable showdown that was tough on everybody's nervous system.

The fact that Castro could kick the American shins, and get away with it, may have been an inspiration to the Panamanians to assert themselves.

In an earlier time—say the days of Theodore Roosevelt, which was a time of big-power imperialism—the United States might have settled Castro's hash fast with a quick and direct invasion.

But now the United States and the Soviet Union, also, insisting they have no imperialistic intentions, have to worry about world opinion, which they are trying to influence, when they deal with little nations

Thus both of them, big as they are, have to operate with one hand tied behind their backs when they encounter trouble-makers, although the Soviets used both hands to crush Hungarians when they tried to assert themselves.

This gives Castro a lot of room to maneuver and shake his fist, which he has been doing pretty well, without fear of being belted. There's nothing in sight to indicate it won't be that way for some time
